GROWING UP AND WELL.

Taft Column Is Now Four Abreast.

Up to Date Nothing Meriting the Name of Opposition Has Developed.

No Delegate for Any Other Likely Candidate Located by Range Finder.

Enthusiastic Friends of President Organizing Clubs in Many Cities.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The developments in the Republican political situation during the last week as seen by the managers are depicted in the statement given out to-day.

Twelve instructed Taft delegates to the Chicago convention were named during the week just ended, and the President's total score is impressive. If there is any real opposition to President Taft's renomination it has not yet been made manifest through the selection of anti-Taft delegates. The delegates that were named to the Taft column this week were the four from Georgia, large and two each from the First, Fifth and Sixth Georgia districts, the Ninth Virginia District, and the First Tennessee.

NOT SATISFACTORY. In other respects the progress of campaign for Mr. Taft's renomination has been most satisfactory. For instance, McKimley, Secretary of the Illinois State Republican Association, and the others who are taking an active part. All the news received during the week has been encouraging, and of a reassuring character, and even from those States in which the so-called anti-Taft sentiment has been advertised as predominating, comes news of the most optimistic character.

Thus, for instance, delegates selected by the Watertown (Wis.) convention to the Second Congressional District meeting unanimously endorsed the President. The Third Wisconsin District has put Taft delegates into the field. In Calhoun county, Iowa, ninety-two of the 143 delegates to the county convention, declared for Taft and instructed the delegates to the Tenth District and State conventions to support him.

PLAN CORNER IN RELIGION.

Movement Under Head in Kansas to Unite All Church Denominations.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.) TOPEKA (Kan.) Feb. 18.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A movement is widespread in Kansas that promises to put several thousand preachers out of business. From dozens of localities come reports of united efforts in religious revivals and getting together by friends of all denominations in social gatherings. Appeals are being made to bring members of all churches in the small towns of the State into one compact religious movement. It is pointed out that in every little town in the State, two, three and in some places, four struggling church organizations are running in opposition to one another. The union of churches would eliminate several thousand local preachers, who would have no other means of support.

AMAZING, INSULTING.

Knox Not Wanted in Bogota.

American Diplomatic Relations With Colombia May Be Broken Off.

Minister Ospina Notifies the Secretary of State to Keep Away.

Rancor Over Panama Zone Still Rife and the Itinerary Is Changed.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.) WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—A grave diplomatic situation between the United States and Colombia has been precipitated by the publication of a letter which Senor Pedro del Ospina, the Colombian Minister, has written to Acting Secretary Huntington Wilson of the State Department, suggesting that it might be "inconvenient" for Secretary Knox to visit Colombia on his tour of Central America.

The Colombian Minister, first drawing attention to the fact that the views are his own and not officially those of his government, seriously criticizes the United States for not submitting to arbitration the differences with Colombia growing out of this government's acquisition of the Panama Canal Zone.

PERSONAL INSULT. Inasmuch as the letter admittedly is the personal expression of the Minister, it was received at the State Department as a personal insult to this government. No action has been taken, but the incident is known to have stirred officials of the United States to such an extent that the recall of the Colombian Minister is expected. It is believed a termination of diplomatic relations between this country and Colombia is in prospect.

Acting Secretary Wilson had advised Senor Ospina of the probable itinerary of Secretary Knox. What is said to have particularly aroused the Colombian Minister was a reference to the republic of Panama in the itinerary, a country whose independence Colombia never has recognized.

DIPLOMATIC PREAMBLE. After the customary diplomatic preamble, the Minister's letter says: Speaking therefore in my own name and without the knowledge of the views of my government on the matter, I take the liberty of suggesting that there is perhaps reason for believing that such visit of his excellency, the Secretary of State, may happen to be considered as inappropriate at the present time, in view of the fact that Colombia still has not placed by the United States, in an exceptional position, as the only member of the numerous family of independent nations scattered over the face of the earth to which, despite its constant demands, the United States refuses to submit to arbitration questions referring exclusively to the interpretation of public treaties and the compliance with obligations imposed by the universally accepted principles of international law on all civilized nations in their relations, one with another.

It is meet to mention here that even the ex-President of the United States, Mr. Roosevelt, both when he occupied that position and when, returned to private life, he has dealt in public with these matters, has always emphatically maintained the propriety and desirability of submitting to the decree of an impartial tribunal of arbitration the decision of international controversies involving such questions.

I shall appreciate it if this, my suggestion, is taken as born of the desire, which animates me to avoid any occasion of aggravating the differences, which exist between the two countries and to see the hour arrive when they may be satisfactorily settled, to which my country always has been and is now disposed.

THREE MONTHS TIME. "Nearly three months have elapsed since in compliance with the instructions of my government I reiterated (November 25) to the government of the United States, the demand for the arbitration of the existing controversy, and I see myself obliged to say with surprise and mortification, which you will doubtless understand, that up to the present I have not had the honor of receiving a reply. One of the grounds of complaint put forward, if my memory serves me well, as I have not the document at hand, by the government of the United States to the government of Great Britain, in 1893-4, when in such a manner it demanded the arbitration of the boundary question between Venezuela, was, as you will remember, that England had left without reply for a considerable length of time an important note of the State Department. Let it be permitted to Colombia in her weakness respectfully to demand that she should be so far for her to see herself subjected to a like treatment.

"No one who knows the unrest which is being felt in my country at this time, and the delay in the satisfactory disposal of these questions will fail to look sympathetically upon the efforts which it is necessary for me to make that settlement be arrived at as rapidly as possible."

Ex-Senator Arrested for Conspiracy and His Wife.

Frank J. and Mrs. May Gardner, of New York City, who appeared together before a magistrate late Saturday, in New York, before whom the former State Senator was arraigned on the charge of plotting to get the Haslett estate. Mrs. Gardner was known on the stage as May Terba. She accompanied her husband as a witness. Gardner gave bond.

TO TRY LIEUT. BLOOM BY A COURT-MARTIAL.

Young Army Officer Whose Ambition as a Private to Wear the Shoulder Straps Created a Cause Celebre Is Charged at Ft. Russell With Conduct Unbecoming His Rank—Trouble Arises from a Salute.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.) CHEYENNE (Wyo.) Feb. 18.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Lieut. Bloom of Battery F, Fourth Field Artillery, is to be court-martialed at Ft. Russell for "conduct unbecoming an officer."

It is alleged that Lieut. Bloom, dissatisfied with the salute which he received from a non-commissioned officer, ordered the subordinate to repeat the salute, thereby starting an altercation which resulted in a physical encounter.

A national interest is given to the case against Bloom by the fact he is the officer in regard to whom President Taft issued a statement that a man's racial and social attributes should not be a bar to his promotion as a commissioned officer in the army.

At the time Bloom, who is a son of the post tailor in Ft. Meyer, Va., and of Jewish blood, became eligible to appointment to a second lieutenant, Col. Gerard, commanding at Ft. Meyer, refused to consider his promotion on the ground that he was "unfit" for service as a commissioned officer.

It was this attitude of Col. Gerard that brought out Mr. Taft's denunciation of prejudice in the army against a man because of his racial characteristics and social standing. Mr. Taft promptly appointed Bloom a second lieutenant, and the young officer was assigned to duty at Ft. Russell.

PITNEY HAS THE CALL TO SUCCEED HARLAN.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.) WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—Mahlon Pitney, Chancellor of the State of New Jersey, member of Congress for two terms, a lawyer and a jurist of thirty years' practice, looms up tonight as the man whom President Taft will appoint to the Supreme Court bench.

Among the friends of the President it was reported a practical certainty that Chancellor Pitney would be appointed and the nomination, according to excellent authority, will be sent to the Senate tomorrow or Tuesday.

So far the President is understood not to have discussed the appointment of "Chancellor Pitney" with all his Cabinet. No special meeting of the Cabinet has been called tonight, but it is possible members of Mr. Taft's official family will be told of his choice tomorrow. The President

EX-SENATOR ARRESTED.

Nurse of Recluse Is Also Held.

Gardner Alleged to Be in Conspiracy to Get Estate of Dying Man.

House of Mystery in Brooklyn the Scene of a Session of the Night Court.

Stateman Hints of Exposures Which He Says Will Hit Several.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.) NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—Former State Senator Frank J. Gardner, of race-track legislation fame, who was arrested and locked up late last night charged with conspiracy to gain control of the million dollar estate of Samuel E. Haslett, an aged recluse, through a power of attorney which Haslett is alleged to have repudiated, was released on $2500 bail today.

Gardner, who a year ago was acquitted of attempting to bribe State Senator Otto G. Foelker in connection with the anti-race-track legislation in this State in 1908, pleaded not guilty at his arraignment, and said he had no doubt of his ability to clear himself.

As the ex-Senator left the courtroom in company with his wife, formerly May Terba, an actress, he said: "I am sure this will come out all right. I have absolutely nothing to fear. There will be plenty of sensational exposures before this case is through and let me assure you I will not be the victim. That is all I care say until I have a talk with counsel."

FIXED FOR TODAY. Gardner's examination was fixed for tomorrow, when it is expected that George H. Decker, who in his story to Maximilian Kampfer, involved Gardner, also will be examined.

Decker was employed as nurse for Haslett when the elderly recluse was taken ill two weeks ago in his "house of mystery." Decker, who was still in jail tonight in default of bail, Haslett was reported in a serious condition tonight.

In his affidavit John B. Lord, counsel for Haslett, who yesterday was barred from his client's house by Decker on the ground Haslett had dismissed him, recites that Decker "did call said Frank J. Gardner to the Haslett residence," that the said Gardner did prepare a power of attorney giving to the said Frank J. Gardner full power and authority over the person and property of said Samuel E. Haslett, "that the signature to said power of attorney is not in the handwriting of Samuel E. Haslett," and "that said Samuel E. Haslett stated to deponent in the presence of said George Decker and other persons that he did not sign said power of attorney."

The document in question, which was witnessed by Decker, authorized Gardner to draw checks, pay bills and care for Mr. Haslett's money and interests in almost every conceivable way and expressly revoked all other powers of attorney.

ALLEGED WILL. Decker's testimony tomorrow is expected to cover an alleged will executed by Haslett, in which Gardner was made sole executor and Decker residuary legatee.

Haslett, whose fortune was the object of the alleged conspiracy, has been a recluse since his wife was burned to death twenty-five years ago and when his "house of mystery" was entered recently, the interior was found in neglect and decay.

George H. Decker was arrested late last night charged with conspiracy to defraud his employer of his property, "by immoral means."

The arrest of Decker followed a raid on Haslett's residence on Remsen street, when Chief Magistrate Otto Kampfer and two policemen were obliged to batter down the door to obtain admission, their object being to ask about the alleged revocation by Haslett of his power of attorney held by John B. Lord, Haslett's attorney for the last fifteen years.

Holding court by the sick man's bedside, Magistrate Kampfer was told by Haslett he never had signed any power of attorney and he supposed Lord was still acting for him. The magistrate ordered the arrest of Decker, who afterwards confessed, according to the magistrate, not only to the falsity of the power which gave to his alleged lawyer complete full power over the millionaire's bank account, but to having drawn a will under which he received a large share of his estate.

The intruders found the floors of the magnificently furnished house covered two inches thick with dust and littering the carpets or swept in to rubbish-filled corners, were more than $10,000 in paper currency, together with stock certificates and bonds. Boxes of gold and silver coins lay exposed in various rooms and hundreds of rare books that apparently had never been opened were found in disordered heaps.

Since his wife was burned to death twenty-five years ago, Haslett practiced songs of love to their mates.

ARREST IRWIN OUT OF ASYLUM.

Peoria Union Ironworker Is Placed Under Bond.

Chicago Police Surprise ex-
Recording Secretary.

Denies He Was Connected With McNamara Plot.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]
CHICAGO, Feb. 18.—John W. Irwin, former recording secretary of the Peoria local of the Structural Ironworkers' International Union, one of the men indicted by the Indianapolis Federal grand jury, was arrested here today.

Irwin was arraigned before a United States Commissioner and was released on a temporary bond of $5000 until next Wednesday.

Irwin's arrest was not in the original bundle of ten sent to Chicago for service. Search for him was started elsewhere. Irwin's warrant did not reach Chicago until late last night.

For more than a year the Peoria secretary's whereabouts have been unknown, except to a few close friends. Government officers at Peoria were told that Irwin had been sent to an asylum under an assumed name.

It was discovered, however, that Irwin had been employed on several structural iron contracts here within that period. Finally, place of residence was found in a remote quarter of the southwest side.

Irwin appeared surprised when arrested. He denied he had been connected with the dynamite conspiracy. When taken to the police station, Irwin asked permission to telephone to Attorney Patrick H. O'Donnell, counsel for the structural ironworkers arrested here. Attorney O'Donnell met Irwin and the Federal officer in the government building where he represented the prisoner in the hearing before Commissioner Foote.

"It is Sunday, and we are wholly unprepared for this," said O'Donnell, "and I wish that his preliminary hearing be continued a few days."

The continuance was granted, the bond was arranged and Irwin left the Federal building with his attorney.

MOODY GIVES BOND.

DULUTH (Minn.), Feb. 17.—Fredrick J. Moody, arrested here Wednesday, charged with being implicated in the alleged McNamara dynamite conspiracy, succeeded today in securing the necessary $5000 bonds and was released.

OF THREE KINDS.

The Evidence to Be Used by the Federal Government in the Indianapolis McNamara Cases.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 18.—Evidence of three kinds, it was learned today, is being prepared by the government for the prosecution of the fifty-four men indicted in the dynamite conspiracy.

It was stated by Dist. Atty. Miller that all this evidence is to be corroborated by witnesses whose names are already known. The evidence chiefly is: About 40,000 letters and telegrams from the headquarters of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Ironworkers, which, according to charges in the indictments, tend to show that President Frank M. Ryan, Secretary-Treasurer Herbert S. Hockin and Executive Board members corresponded for six years with business agents of local unions about "jobs" to be blown up.

Stenographic records of a telephonic apparatus which the government had connected with Ryan's house for more than three months and through which it is asserted conversations of the ironworkers' officials about the dynamite conspiracy were overheard and transcribed.

Orde McNamara's confession covering his experience as a dynamite employed by J. J. McNamara from June, 1907, to his arrest last April.

"McNamara's confession probably will be the basis of the prosecution," said Dist. Atty. Miller. "It has been corroborated in every detail, especially with reference to men, who he asserts, assisted him in the conspiracy."

MYSTERY HOUSE BURNS; TENANT IS MISSING.

MAINTAINING until the last its uncanny and awesome reputation, the celebrated Hollywood "House of Mystery," at No. 1423 Kingsley drive, a counterpart of the "Hawlett House of Mystery," in Brooklyn, N. Y., now in the lime light of publicity, was destroyed by fire last night and there are reasons for believing that the lone tenant who occupied the place perished with the treasures of art and travel, with which he was surrounded, according to popular tradition.

An investigation immediately was made by the Hollywood police, with a view of determining the facts, but at an early hour this morning the officers had been unable to locate the man who is known to have lived alone in the house, and by common consent, it was taken for granted he had burned to death.

As soon as the heat arising from the smoldering embers subsided sufficiently, a thorough search of the ruins will be made. According to information in the hands of the authorities, the building which was a one-story bungalow, was owned by Mrs. M. J. Emerson of No. 1353 South Hollywood, who is supposed to have subleased it to a man whose name the officers were unable to obtain.

Neighbors declared that they had seen the lone tenant enter and leave the premises, but so far as known, none of them ever was invited to enter the house itself.

As the place had been known for some time as the "House of Mystery," it was not long before the gossips of the neighborhood again turned their attention to the dwelling with the result that little children are said by the police to have been in deadly fear of coming too close.

Accordingly when flames were seen rising from the windows shortly after 10 o'clock last night hundreds of spectators gathered at every convenient vantage point to watch the destruction.

The fire department did all that was possible to save the place but its efforts proved unavailing and within an hour nothing remained of the mysterious edifice but a pile of smoldering coals.

The discovery of the tenant's automobile standing in the rear yard ready for service led to an inquiry regarding the stranger's fate and still later to the rumors that he too had perished. The number of the machine, 14,462, showed that it had been owned by Sophie McKenzie, No. 637 North Raymond avenue, Pasadena, but the police believe that it has been transferred, although the records of the department failed to give any clue to the name of its present possessor.

The automobile is a steamer of the touring pattern, and evidently had been left in the yard with the intention of using it again last night. At the home of Mrs. Emerson the supposed owner, it was announced that she had been unable to return until this morning. J. H. Monahan, who answered the call, informed the police that he had seen the car in the evening, but could be found, but supposed that she was visiting friends in the city somewhere.

While preparations continued for making a complete search of the ruins early this morning, unless the tenant is located in the interim.

TACOMA, Feb. 18.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Accompanied by her nurse, Miss Margaret Conway of Australia, and by Mrs. Lucian Adams, wife of the British Vice-Consul of Tacoma, and her children, Miss Dorothy Williamson, who was prosecuting witness against Dr. Linda B. Hazard, the "starvation specialist," is now on her way to Los Angeles to rest after the strain of the incident.

Miss Williamson intends to remain in California six weeks and perhaps longer unless legal matters connected with civil suits filed against the specialist should require her presence here sooner.

After an illness of almost a year, Mrs. James A. Anderson, wife of the first president of the Board of Public Works, died at her home, No. 615 Shatto avenue, last Thursday evening. She had been a resident of this city for twenty-five years, and possessed a wide acquaintance. The funeral will take place from the funeral residence this morning at 10:30 o'clock. The interment will be private.

Rededication services were held at the West Adams Presbyterian Church yesterday. The ceremonies were in charge of the pastor, Rev. George E. Kimmel. The church was formerly known as the Grandview Presbyterian. The special consecration service was held at 11 o'clock, the pastor presiding.

Pinchot had sealed himself up in the big house and refused admittance to friends, relatives or strangers. He never went out except to see his attorney in whose office today he was taken seriously ill. He occupied but one room in the gloomy dwelling and cooked his own meals.

Pinchot declares that the events of the last month have made it apparent that Senator La Follette's candidacy will hold the insurgents together as a fighting force nor prevent the nomination of a reactionary.

INNOVATION IS NOT NECESSARY.

Gov. Harmon Says People Are Own Masters Now.

Declares He Was Blamed for What Jefferson Said.

Ohio People, He Says, Have Worked Out Salvation.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]
COLUMBUS (O.), Feb. 18.—Declaring that under the present republican form of government the people are just as much their own masters as they would be under the initiative and referendum, and denying that in a recent speech before the Ohio Constitutional convention he took a stand against the latter form of government, Gov. Judson Harmon last night quoted Thomas Jefferson as authority for his statements.

He said he had been misrepresented as saying that the people of Ohio were unfit to govern themselves when he really said they had successfully governed themselves for a hundred years.

In evidence of the fact that it should be proven a success in smaller communities first, the Governor quoted Thomas Jefferson as saying: "Such a government is evidently restrained to a very narrow limit of space and population. I doubt if it would be possible to extend it to the limits of a New England township."

When the charges were made and extracts quoted from speeches made some years ago by Gov. Wilson, a grievance committee of the Central Labor body was instructed to investigate. The committee submitted a partial report today containing the letter from Gov. Wilson, in which he said that from the collection of excerpts quoted he had no recollection of ever having made such statements.

The president of the New Jersey labor body sent the committee a letter stating that Gov. Wilson had been misquoted by organized labor in his own State.

The Balance of Power.
[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]
OKLAHOMA CITY (Okla.), Feb. 18.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Uninstructed delegates will hold the balance of power in the Democratic State convention to be held in Oklahoma City February 22. This was certain this morning when returns from sixty-six of the seventy-seven Oklahoma counties showed that in yesterday's county primaries twenty-five counties, having a total of 192 delegates in the State convention, had instructed for Champ Clark as Presidential nominee; twenty-one counties with 170 delegates instructed for Woodrow Wilson, while twenty counties with 182 delegates declined to have their delegates take any instructions.

GOV. WILSON ABSOLVED.
Eastern Labor Organization Gives Him Clean Bill of Health on Old Labor Charges.

CHICAGO, Feb. 18.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The political stock of Gov. Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey went up in a meeting of the Chicago Federation of Labor today. Communications were read from Gov. Wilson himself and from officers of the State Federation of Labor of New Jersey, refuting the charges made four weeks ago that the Presidential candidate was "an enemy of organized labor."

When the charges were made and extracts quoted from speeches made some years ago by Gov. Wilson, a grievance committee of the Central Labor body was instructed to investigate. The committee submitted a partial report today containing the letter from Gov. The formal launching of the beautiful $75,000 group at Huntington Park yesterday, made in the presence of 2000 interested spectators, was as well the first event of significance of the annual convention of District Grand Lodge No. 4, I.O.B.B., now in progress in this city. Harris Newman, donor of the administration building (center) laid the first trowel full of mortar, and Otto Irving Wise, Grand President of the Order, laid the last with a silver trowel especially made for the occasion. Perspective and plans for the buildings were made by the Milwaukee Building Company of this city.

The Touch of Midas.

FRUITS OF HESPERIDES GLOW IN FLOOD OF GOLD.

Second National Orange Show, Opening Tonight in San Bernardino, a Six-Day Marathon of Beauty for Prizes Fitting in Worth and Value—Exhibits of Wonderful Variety from Many Southland Cities.

ORANGE literally by the million— a veritable flood of golden wealth, fairest product of the land of summer cunningly wrought into myriad forms by a thousand hands browned in the wide orchards of the sun-bathed Southland; fruit of the soil in a score of hues, yet blasing from a cool background of native foliage as in their own living groves; the greatest triumphs of a modern age of miracles reproduced in luscious miniature by the touch of artists Midas-like in the auriferous beauty of their product—that is the second national orange show, which opens tonight in San Bernardino.

Alive to the fact that the orange show has grown mightily in importance since the first exhibit of citrus fruits last year, San Bernardino is preparing to welcome thousands to the great event. For six days orange and lemon-growing districts from Fresno to San Diego, will vie with one another for prizes of large intrinsic value.

Last year the orange show was opened for the first time. Twenty thousand persons saw that exposition in one tent. This year more than twice the number of exhibits, occupying two large citrus tents, is expected to draw 60,000 visitors.

Harry Perkins of Redlands is the man responsible for the orange show idea. Six months before the last show his vision of the importance of an exhibit of the best fruits of California, of a competition that would mean much to the citrus fruit growers and to California, bore significance in a way that excited favorable comment everywhere.

This year the orange growers of the county selected the completed idea with zest, and with Superintendent Perkins at the head, have produced an astonishing array of citrus products. Not the least important among the exhibits is the industrial section, which through its lectures and exhibits on the handling and growing of the fruit, is a great step in horticultural education.

ON NEUTRAL GROUND.

C. M. Grow is president of the association, Joseph Ingersoll, vice-president; F. M. Renfro, secretary, and the Farmers' Exchange National Bank of San Bernardino, is treasurer. The location of the orange show is an ideal one. San Bernardino is not an extensive orange-growing community. "Favoritism in the selection of a site for the show, therefore, does not bother the exhibitors, among whom there is keen competition.

The Executive Committee is composed of the chairmen of the several show committees, as follows: Finance, A. G. Kendall; Advertising, F. F. Oster; Concessions, Ralph E. Swing; Tickets, James H. Boyd; Fruit Exhibits, John Anderson, Jr.; Industrial Exhibit, J. Harold Barnum; Scope and Character, J. E. Rich; Entertainment, F. J. Peacock; Awards, W. W. Brown; Decorations, B. F. Bledsoe; Illuminations, W. M. Parker; State and "Festivals," S. W. McNab; Installation, F. A. McGinnis; Parade, M. L. Parcells; Invitation, Herman Harris; Transportation, A. B. Merriwell.

Outside the tents, which contain the exhibits is the "Midway," a collection of shows and refreshment stands where the loose change of the visitors may be left. The "Midway" runs the entire length of the two tents, 500 feet.

Inside the citrus fruits tent long tiers of oranges and lemons and

FOUR RARELY ESCAPE WHEN GAS HEATER LETS GO.

Woman Strives to Reach Gushing Burner and Falls Unconscious; a Fellow-Lodger Drops Senseless on Her Body and Two Little Children Are Gravely Affected.

Mrs. Gladys Randolph, Philip Showler, Hazel Cooper and Elmer Berry, the last two children, had a narrow escape from asphyxiation in the Crown Hill apartments, No. 1341-43 Crown Hill street, yesterday by gas escaping suddenly and in large quantities from a heater used in connection with a bath tub. Mrs. J. Castanien, who conducts the apartments, detected the odor of gas and ran to Mrs. Randolph's apartments. Opening the door she almost fell over the prostrate form of Mrs. Randolph. She had succumbed to the fumes and fallen unconscious to the floor. At that moment Showler, who had become partially overcome, by the gas in an adjoining room, ran into Mrs. Randolph's apartment and sought to raise her from the floor. As he leaned over fell in a semi-conscious condition to the floor, almost on the woman's body.

Elmer Berry is the 2-year-old son of Mrs. Randolph. Mrs. Randolph's sister, who occupies an apartment above. The baby was playing on Mrs. Randolph's bed, and was seriously affected by inhaling the fumes. Cooper, who lives with her parents at No. 114 South Union street, was visiting the Berry family. Although he was not in the room long, he was made very sick.

Mrs. Castanien said yesterday she was convinced, had she not detected the odor of escaping gas when she did, the quartette would have been asphyxiated. Mrs. Randolph said when she fell to the floor she was attempting to reach the bathroom shut off the heater. She lost consciousness when she reached the foot of the bed, her last remembrance being an attempt to cry out for help when she felt herself falling.

Revolver, Black-Jack, Chloroform, and Pass-key Pretty Fair Equipment for Business.

Robert Carroll, alias William Meyer, alleged to be one of the cleverest sneak thieves and all-around crooks the police have had to deal with recently, was caught early yesterday morning in a North Main street rooming house after robbing and brutally assaulting Frank Gerard.

A loaded revolver, black-jack, $20 in gold, a pass key and a vial of chloroform were found on Carroll. When asked why he carried the chloroform, Carroll replied in a flippant manner: "What do they usually use that stuff for to keep people awake?"

Gerard occupies room 22 at No. 132 North Main street. Carroll forced the door with his pass key. His entrance disturbed Gerard, but the latter did not awaken to a full realization of what was transpiring in his room until after Carroll had robbed him of $25.

When Carroll assaulted Gerard the latter called for help and other lodgers rushed into the room and overpowered Carroll. He was held until the officers arrived when he was taken to the Central Police Station. Gerard's contused head was treated at the receiving hospital.

B'nai B'rith's New Benevolent Institution for Poor Children of Hebrew Race.

back to the platform and delivered
the principal address of the afternoon.
"it is with great pleasure," he said,
"that the fraternity which I represent participates in such an occasion as this. In a way, in a small way, perhaps, but in a way, we are having a part, all of us, in making history today. We have assisted at the important step in erecting an institution, a great undertaking, that will be in existence when all of us and even our memories shall have been forgotten."
There was no lesson more closely taught and deeply learned in Jewish homes, he continued, than the lesson to care for and nourish those less fortunate than ourselves. It is mainly because of this, he said, that preparations are already being made to meet the great problem that the people will be called on to meet in the coming years. It was the first duty, he said, of God's children to care for God's children everywhere. With that feeling and a feeling of brotherhood, the order of B'nai B'rith had un-taken this work of looking after the orphans of Jewish parentage, less fortunate than others, and these boys and girls were to be given just such opportunities as his own children or those of his hearers were to receive —they were to become good and useful citizens in the community. Pure virtue and religion have been Jewish principles always, he said, and these boys and girls, who were the charges of the Jewish people, would receive these principles in this institution as they would in a home.

Rev. S. Hecht, D. D., who followed the Grand Rabbi, spoke of the difficulties that had been surmounted in bringing the orphanage into being, and said that it had required a great deal of money, but that such men had been found. Rev. David Cohen of Beth Israel spoke in Hebrew, and so he made better Jews,
and in making them better Jews,
they would become better Americans.

Two thousand men, women and children from all parts of the Pacific Coast gathered on the grounds of the orphan institution at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon. Seats had been provided in front of the frame of what will be the administration building when completed. The building, which is to be the dormitories, are nearing completion and the general scheme of the buildings outlined. The orphanage, which was provided through the $25,000 gift of Harris Newmark, will be laid out into pleasing walks and gardens and the surroundings of the institution will make it a kind of college in the midst of a broad park before many months. In all, in addition to the gift of Harris Newmark, the buildings as planned to date are expected to be constructed for a little less than $75,000. Mr. Newmark's munificence was referred to on several occasions by speakers yesterday as having made the building possible of which they were then laying the cornerstone.

Bright-faced girls and boys, wards of the Jewish Orphans' Home Association, at present domiciled in a wooden building some blocks away from their future home, gave added interest to the occasion, and their proficiency in Hebrew as they do every morning at the orphanage. Later
Samuel Oberman and Morris Sugar-
man, two of the association's wards,
recited the One-hundred-and-twenty-seventh Psalm in Hebrew and then in English.

Louis M. Cole, chairman of the Building Committee and chairman of the day, in calling the assemblage to order, said it would be only a short time before the people must begin
to plan for more cottages on the
tract. He called upon Rev. B. M.
Kaplan, D. D., of San Francisco, representing the Grand Lodge I.O.B.B.,
to deliver the invocation. S. G. Mar-
shutz, president of the Orphans'
Home, gave a succinct history of the undertaking. He declared that it was no mere coincidence that the cornerstone should be laid on the day
when the Grand Lodge of B'nai
B'rith convened in Los Angeles, since
the idea of establishing such an orphanage had its inception in the order in December, 1907, and a committee had been appointed of which
the speaker was chairman.

As soon as he concluded, he led the way, with Chairman Cole, Grand President Wise and the officials of the order and of the Orphans' Home, who occupied seats on the platform to the corner stone of the building, where the cornerstone was in readiness. A copper bowl, sealed and soldered, had been filled with mementos of historical interest, and this was lowered into the cavity.
Harris Newmark placed the first trowel load of mortar over the cavity, and with a silver trowel, especially provided for the occasion, Grand President Wise closed the cavity and smoothed over the concrete and mortar. This done, he stepped back to the platform and delivered

the principal address of the afternoon.
"it is with great pleasure," he said,

morning at the orphanage. Later
Samuel Oberman and Morris Sugar-
man, two of the association's wards,
recited the One-hundred-and-twenty-seventh Psalm in Hebrew and then
in English.

Louis M. Cole, chairman of the Building Committee and chairman of
the day, in calling the assemblage to
order, said it would be only a short
time before the people must begin
to plan for more cottages on the
tract. He called upon Rev. B. M.
Kaplan, D. D., of San Francisco, representing the Grand Lodge I.O.B.B.,
to deliver the invocation. S. G. Mar-
shutz, president of the Orphans'
Home, gave a succinct history of the undertaking. He declared that it was no mere coincidence that the cornerstone should be laid on the day
when the Grand Lodge of B'nai
B'rith convened in Los Angeles, since
the idea of establishing such an
orphanage had its inception in the order in December, 1907, and a committee had been appointed of which
the speaker was chairman.

Jewish Orphans' Home and the Men Who Laid Its Cornerstone.
The formal launching of the beautiful $75,000 group at Huntington Park yesterday, made in the presence of 2000 interested spectators, was as well the first event of significance of the annual convention of District Grand Lodge No. 4, I.O.B.B., now in progress in this city. Harris Newmark, donor of the administration building (center), laid the first trowel full of mortar, and Otto Irving Wise, Grand President of the Order, laid the last with a silver trowel especially made for the occasion. Perspective and plans for the buildings were made by the Milwaukee Building Company of this city.

FRUITS OF HESPERIDES
GLOW IN FLOOD OF GOLD.

Second National Orange Show, Opening Tonight in San Bernardino, a Six-Day Marathon of Beauty for Prizes Fitting in Worth and Value—Exhibits of Wonderful Variety from Many Southland Cities.

ORANGES literally by the million—
a veritable flood of golden wealth, the latest product of the land of summer, cunningly wrought into myriad forms by a thousand hands browned in the wide orchards of the sunbathed Southland; fruits of the soil in a score of hues, yet blazing from a cool background of native foliage as in their own living groves; the greatest triumphs of a modern age of miracles reproduced in luscious miniature by the touch of artists Midas-like in the auriferous beauty of their product—that is the second national orange show, which opens tonight in San Bernardino.

Alive to the fact that the orange show has grown mightily in importance since the first exhibit of citrus fruits last year, San Bernardino is preparing to welcome thousands to the great event. For six days orange men and growers of the district, from Fresno to San Diego, will vie with one another for prizes of large intrinsic value.

Last year the orange show was opened for the first time. Twenty thousand persons saw that exhibition in one tent. This year more than twice the number of exhibits, occupying two large circus tents, is expected to draw 60,000 visitors.

Harry Perkins of Redlands is the man responsible for the orange show idea. Six months before the last show his vision of the importance of an exhibit of the best fruits of California, of a competition that would mean much to the citrus fruit growers and to California, bore significance in a way that excited favorable comment everywhere.

This year the orange growers of the country seized the completed idea with zeal, and, with Superintendent Perkins at the head, have produced an exhibit of citrus fruits of a quality not the least important among the exhibits in the industrial section, which through its lectures and exhibits on the handling and growing of the fruit, is a great step in horticultural education.

ON NEUTRAL GROUND.
C. M. Grow is president of the association, Joseph Ingersoll, vice-president; F. M. Renfro, secretary, and the Farmers' Exchange National Bank of San Bernardino, is treasurer. The location of the orange show is an ideal one. San Bernardino is not an orange-growing community. Favoritism in the selection of a site for the show, therefore, does not bother the exhibitors, among whom there is keen competition.

The Executive Committee is composed of the chairmen of the several show committees, as follows: Finance,
J. G. Kendall; Advertising, F. F.
Oster; Concessions, Ralph E. Swing;
Tickets, James H. Boyd; Fruit Exhibits, John Anderson, Jr.; Industrial Exhibit, J. Harold Barnum; Scope and Character, J. E. Rich; Entertainment, F. J. Peacock; Awards, W. W.
Brison; Decorations, B. F. Hedges; Illustrations, W. M. Parker; State and Theatricals, S. W. McNab; Installation, F. A. McGinnis; Parades, M. L.
Parcells; Invitation, Herman Harris;
Transportation, A. B. Merrihue.

Outside the tents, which contain the exhibits is the "Midway," a collection of shows and refreshment stands where the loose change of the visitors may be left. The "Midway" runs the entire length of the two tents, 600 feet.

Inside the citrus fruits tent long towers of oranges and lemons and models in boxes take the place of the audience at the circus—for the big top came from the Barnum show.

In the center are placed the exhibits which take definite shape.

MODEL CITRUS TRAIN.
A great feature of the exhibit is that of the Santa Fe Railroad Company. Long will the orange men and visitors at the show remember the enterprise, shown by the company in presenting for the approbation of the visitors a train consisting of a model engine, a refrigerator car and a caboose, reduced to one-third, covered with oranges and lemons.

Everything is there, even to the ice in the chest of the refrigerator, and the cushions on the seats of the caboose. The wheels of the engine are turned by an electric motor, artfully concealed.

The body of the engine and tender are covered with navel. The front, steam chest and piston rods are a mass of tangerines. The coal is represented by lemons of the finest quality. The top and edges of the refrigerator car and caboose are composed of lemons.

DEATH'S FUMES
STRIKE QUICKLY.

FOUR BARELY ESCAPE WHEN GAS HEATER LETS GO.

Woman Strives to Reach Gushing
Burner and Falls Unconscious; a Fellow-Lodger Drops Senseless on
Her Body and Two Little Children Are Gravely Affected.

Mrs. Gladys Randolph, Philip Showler, Hazel Cooper and Elmer Berry, the last two children, had a narrow escape from asphyxiation in the Crown Hill apartments, No. 1141-43
Crown Hill street, yesterday by gas escaping suddenly and in large quantities from a heater used in connection with a bath tub. Mrs. J. Castanien, who conducts the apartments, detected the odor of gas and ran to Mrs.
Randolph's apartments. Opening the door she almost fell over the prostrate form of Mrs. Randolph. She had succumbed to the fumes and fallen unconscious to the floor. At that moment Showler, who had become partially overcome, by the gas in an adjoining room, ran into Mrs. Randolph's apartment and sought to raise her from the floor. As he leaned over fell in a semi-conscious condition to the floor, almost on the woman's body.

Elmer Berry is the 2-year-old son of Mrs. Bernice Berry, Mrs. Randolph's sister, who occupies an apartment above. The baby was playing on Mrs.
Randolph's bed, and was seriously affected by inhaling the fumes. Cooper, who lives with his parents at No. 314
South Union street, was visiting the Berry family. Although he was not in the room long, he was made very sick.

Mrs. Castanien said yesterday she was convinced, had she not detected the odor of escaping gas when she did, the quartette would have been asphyxiated. Mrs. Randolph said when she fell to the floor she was attempting to reach the bathroom to shut off the heater. She lost consciousness when she reached the foot of the bed, her last remembrance being an attempt to cry out for help when she felt herself falling.

HE HAD THE TOOLS.
Revolver, Black-Jack, Chloroform, and Pass-Key Pretty Fair Equipment for Business.

Robert Carroll, alias William Meyer, alleged to be one of the cleverest snook thieves and all-around crooks
the police have had to deal with recently, was caught early yesterday morning in a North Main street rooming house after robbing and brutally assaulting Frank Gerard.

A loaded revolver, black-jack, $20 in gold, a pass key and a vial of chloroform were found on Carroll.
When asked why he carried the chloroform, Carroll replied in a slip-pant manner:

"What I usually use that stuff for, to keep people awake."

Gerard occupies room 22 at No. 123 North Main street. Carroll forced the door with his pass key. His entrance disturbed Gerard, but the latter did not awaken to a full realization of what was transpiring in his room until after Carroll had robbed him of $25.

When Carroll assaulted Gerard the latter called for help and other lodgers rushed into the room and overpowered Carroll. He was held until the officers arrived when he was taken to the Central Police Station. Gerard's concused head was treated at the Receiving Hospital.

UTAH PICNIC.
The annual picnic of former residents of Utah will be held at Echo Park next Saturday. All such residents are cordially invited to be in attendance, not forgetting their baskets.

feet across the enclosure, consisting of a wall of oranges, in which are two openings, surmounted with velvet curtains, from which flash tiny globe lights. This exhibit was installed by W. J. Pentelow, president of the Chamber of Commerce of Corona, and F. H. Roberts, manager of the Arlington Heights Fruit Company. There are 250 boxes of oranges, lemons and pomelos in this exhibit. The fruit has a magnificent appearance.

THEY BEAT THE DUTCH.

Unique is the exhibit of the Rialto district. Here is a Dutch windmill, composed of oranges with the substructure, of course, of wood and iron. Even the flying arms, from which colored lights flash at every revolution, are of oranges. J. D. McGregor is in charge of this exhibit for the Rialto Chamber of Commerce.

San Diego has a creditable exhibit. It stands at an advantageous point, a portico filled with the pomelos, seedless and seed, the fine lemons and the valencia of the groves of El Cajon, La Mesa and Lemon Grove. Above the rows of citrus fruit is the medalion of the Panama-Pacific Exposition with views of the city and bay of San Diego.

The Bloomington section is one that will instantly please. It is composed of a rest-room for ladies fringed with the faultless fruit of that fertile section in ranks of boxes with the fruit wrapped and labelled. Frank Weber, a member of the Bloomington Board of Trade, superintended the installation of this exhibit. A side exhibit of the famous Dan Patch brand oranges, with a representation of the horse made in sand by J. J. Taylor, the Long Beach sand artist.

The Lindsay district is represented by a beautiful collection of citrus fruits. T. E. Anderson is in charge of this section. There are 100 boxes of Blue Label oranges and blood grapefruit and tangerines in profusion.

MODERN PYRAMID.

Uplands is prominent among the exhibitors. John D. Howe of the Uplands Chamber of Commerce has achieved greatness in his pyramid and columns composed of the fruit of that rich section. Among the famous brands here exhibited are the Golden Cross, Pinnacle, Lotus, and Euclid. E. B. Reynolds, secretary of the Uplands Chamber of Commerce, was one of the hard workers in getting up the exhibit.

The Cucamonga exhibit is one to please the eye. Rows upon rows of the choicest fruit greets the visitors. Charles Morrison of the Chamber of Commerce of that city, left no stone unturned to show adequately the excellent fruit grown there. Here is a panorama picture of the Cucamonga Valley. The color scheme is red and green.

The Placentia display is one which attracts and holds attention. Thomas E. Berry is in charge. There are 150 boxes of oranges and lemons in a huge pyramid topped with a heart. This district is in the heart of the great valencia district and the Placentia men want it known. The growers in this district are proud of the record achieved by one of their number in getting the record price for oranges, $11 per box, last October.

The Fontana district is well represented in a miniature grove, with the mountains painted in the background. Tiny streams of water run down between the rows of little trees. This exhibit was built by C. A. Hoffman.

PANAMA CANAL COMPLETE.

The San Bernardino High School has a unique and creditable exhibit. Here is a model of the Panama Canal in oranges. Lighthouses in miniature top hills of golden fruit, while on each side is the ocean represented by ponds of water. Fifty boys of the high school built this exhibit.

Kern county is represented by a table of choice navels, with yellow bunting, in charge of F. J. Neff, of the Chamber of Commerce of Bakersfield.

The Whittier district exhibit is one which compels attention. Oranges and lemons, the best of the district, are packed in long rows, some outlining the word "Whittier."

The San Bernardino Water department is to the front with an electric fountain, fringed with oranges, in yellow and green, with myriads of electric lights. This represents the Lytle Creek water supply.

In the industrial section an orange packing house is in full operation. Here also are young trees, a smudging exhibit, and other educational features. Here are shown fertilizers and grove implements.

ATTRACTIVE PROGRAMME.

The programme is an attractive one. This evening the show will be officially opened at 7 o'clock with a display of fireworks in the downtown section of the city, after which a parade of officials and growers will escort the public to the tent. The opening ceremony will follow. There will be speeches by prominent citizens.

On Tuesday the exposition tent will be opened at 10 a.m. There will be a programme on the stage, as it will be Children's Day, and youngsters from all over Southern California will have the right of way. There will be a concert in the evening by a Hawaiian orchestra.

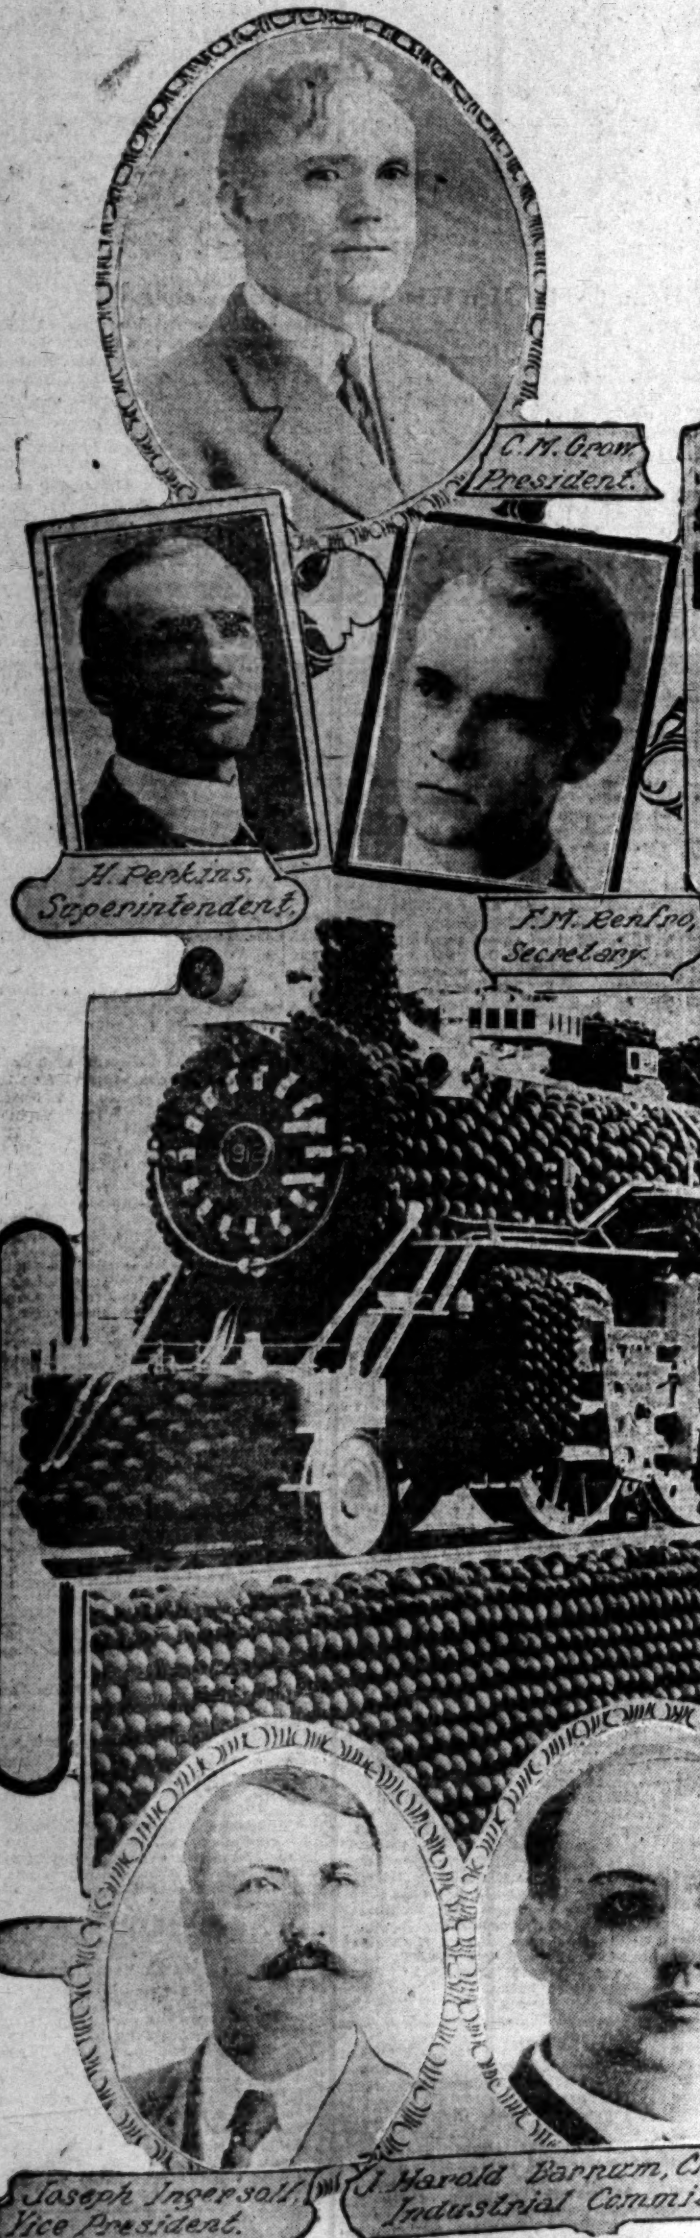

On Wednesday Redlands will take charge of the stage programme. There will be grand free exhibitions on the Midway.

Thursday there will be an exhibition run by the fire department of San Bernardino, and speeches by Mayors of California cities in the afternoon on the stage in the tent.

Friday the Queen of the Orange show will be crowned and there will be a box-making contest in the industrial section. Saturday there will be closing exercises and awarding of the prizes.

Glimpses of the Great National Orange Show Opening Tonight in San Bernardino.

And the principal figures instrumental in securing what is conceded before its opening to be the most pretentious exhibit of the kind ever attempted in Southern California. The central picture is the great engine and train of oranges, the exhibit of the Santa Fe Railroad Company, which alone required five weeks to build. It was constructed under the personal supervision of J. P. Wall, superintendent of the railway shops. Above is the Redlands exhibit, one of notable beauty and fine execution. These are but two of many, representing every orange growing district from San Diego to Fresno.

No Home in This City Need Have a Dirty, Discolored, Water-Closet Bowl

The household duty that was always the most unpleasant is now made easy. Sani-Flush, a powdered chemical compound, cleans water-closet bowls without scrubbing or touching the bowl with the hands. No matter how badly discolored, it will quickly make the bowl as white as new. It won't injure the bowl or plumbing—nor is it dangerous to handle, like the acids so often used.

ONE AT A TIME.

Oakland police are after a man whose marriage to his sixth wife was bigamous. A man who wants six wives in California should be careful to marry them serially.

THE SUBSTITUTE.

A dispatch from Oxford says that the temperance campaign there promises to be full of ginger. It usually happens that ginger follows a successful dry campaign in large quantities, but in liquid form.

NOT RELATED.

The statement by the warden of the Washington State Penitentiary that he has fifteen college and university men in his institution to serve as teachers of a proposed night school has nothing to do with the problem of what America will do with its surplus college graduates.

THE BEST OF IT.

A native daughter of California is to wed an Austrian count. We hope that Austria genuinely appreciates California's condescension. Austria may be a great country with plenty of noblemen and royal ecstasies, but it will need a regeneration before it can produce anything as good as a California native daughter.

A DETERMINED CITY.

Five murderers were hanged in Chicago Friday. An average of something more than 300 murders a year is a shock even to Chicago's sensibilities. By giving the murderers a chance for their lives they were taking away the chance of everybody else. It began to be a question of who should survive, the citizen or the desperado.

A PRECEDENT.

The president of Yale sat in his home in New Haven and addressed banqueters at Chicago by telephone. It would be pleasant to receive most of our after-dinner speeches and all of our sermons in this fashion, because one might then leave the room without insulting the speaker or might sleep through the discourse with a clear conscience.

ILLNESS OF LA FOLLETTE.

The nervous collapse of Senator La Follette will be regretted by many who did not favor his political aspirations. That this collapse may have been promoted if not actually brought about by the treachery of Pinchot and the Rooseveltian brigade is very probable. It is to be hoped that the illness of Senator La Follette will not be permanent, for he possesses great capacity for usefulness, although like all fanatics he loses the sense of perspective and becomes incapable of weighing and judging.

WISE WOMEN.

When the Woman's Progressive League adopted its name its organizers repeatedly explained that the word progressive meant what it said, with nothing whatever to do with the word insurgency or the insurgent movement. By positively refusing to be involved in any fashion with the Presidential primary campaign the league has not only proved the truth of its assertion as to its name and saved itself endless conflict with its membership, but has placed itself in a position to serve the State nobly in its campaign to give world-wide publicity to the slogan "California, 1915," and to prepare every city in the State for the expected throng. It is really this latter purpose which the women have in mind. They claim to be a political issue inasmuch as every future election of town trustees and city councilmen for two years should be based on the idea of installing public officers who will boost for 1915 and who will get their towns and cities ready for the influx of visitors. The women are organizing branch leagues all over the State, and if their future conduct is safeguarded by the wisdom they have shown in the past they will have a powerful working machine.

SANITATION IN ECUADOR.

An interesting question that will at no very distant date be submitted to a court of nations is how far they may go in preserving the health of the world. The United States has banished yellow fever from our southern ports, from Havana and from Panama. England has expelled it from India, and through the joint efforts of the continental powers of Europe, acting in conjunction with England and the United States, it has been kept out of the coast cities of China. But in South American countries there has been, with the exception of Brazil and the Argentine, no perceptible advance in the science of sanitation.

Guayaquil in Ecuador is a pesthole. It is a breeder of yellow fever. The opening of the Panama Canal will bring Guayaquil into direct communication with Europe and Asia, and there is danger of Marseilles and Genoa, and Bombay and Calcutta being affected. Ecuador will hesitate about permitting any European power to occupy her soil even for the purpose of banishing yellow fever, lest a temporary sojourn might, by trickery, be made permanent for acquisition and colonization of African and South American countries is in vogue in Europe. Ecuador entertains no apprehensions of that sort from the United States and the cleaning up of Guayaquil will probably fall to our lot.

It would be a popular move if the projectors of the proposed voyage to the cold Arctic could arrange to take old "Doc" Cook along.

A CLIMBING SUFFRAGETTE.

Miss Annie S. Peck of New York has, in the opinion of the Joan of Arc Suffrage League, done more to advance the cause of woman suffrage in that benighted metropolis of the western world than any other woman or than any member of the opposite-and inferior-sex. Miss Peck scorned the ordinary methods of the Equal Suffrage League. Not for her the pyrotechnic, flamboyant oratory of the platform. Not for her the cogent reasoning of the pamphlet. Not for her the traveling lunch wagon, from which sandwiches well stricken in years, and coffee, such as your mother never used to make, are dispensed. Miss Peck is a climber, not a rhetorical climber, but a physical climber. She was not content to promote the cause of woman suffrage by climbing on a ladder of tropes to the rhetorical altitude of the most eloquent of her sisterhood. She was after actual and not symbolical altitudes. There was no accessible mountain top in the United States near enough to the stars to satisfy her aspirations. She sailed from New York for Lima in Peru. From thence she journeyed eastward 100 miles to a village called Viraco. Then, accompanied by a German guide, five half-breeds and a native caballero, she started for the summit of Mount Coropuna.

The party were seven days in reaching the goal. When they were half way up the natives tried to watch. They feared that the God of the mountain would turn them to stone. The mountain is or has been a volcano. They smelled sulphur and, on reaching the summit, they apprehended being devoured by the monster who was believed to make his home there. But the monster ate them not.

On the summit the snow is from 100 to 300 feet deep. In that snow Miss Peck planted a staff, from which floated an American flag embroidered with the motto, "Votes for Women." Then, emulating the King of France, who marched up the hill and they marched down again, Miss Peck and her party descended the eastern side of the mountain and reached La Paz, the capital of Bolivia, where—with the President of Bolivia in the audience—the lady delivered a lecture on the United States. From La Paz she journeyed to Rio Janeiro, where she took a steamer for New York.

When the steamer on which Miss Peck was a passenger reached Pier 12, Brooklyn, she stood proudly on the quarterdeck and received the chattering cheers of the shivering members of the Joan of Arc Suffrage League, who carried the black and yellow banners of their organization. Women shivered in their furs in the serot weather of Brooklyn, but Miss Peck wore no coat and on her head was an August straw hat. She was injured to the glacial slopes of the Andes. As the steamer Vassar came within speaking distance one of the women, sighting Miss Peck on deck, shouted to her, "Did you plant it?" "Hard and fast," yelled Miss Peck. "It is there to stay." "Good for you," shouted the woman. "It is a symbol of the emancipation of the women of the Western Hemisphere."

To the dense intellect of the tyrant man-tyrant no more in California, for here he is proud to acknowledge as his political equal and his moral superior the bright, brave women who in December last saved our city from the ruin that would have been wrought by socialism—the achievement of Miss Peck as a mountain climber, although it illustrates the pluck and persistency of the lady, does not seem to be of any perceptible advantage to the cause of equal suffrage any more than would the act of two Belgian women in pulling a plow through the ground. It is not the physical, but the mental and moral, endowments of a woman that entitle and qualify her to exercise the right of suffrage, and such gushings as that of the Joan of Arc Suffrage League over the Andes climbing of Miss Peck seem, on the whole, just a little ridiculous.

THE WISE BUGS.

When it comes to reading the signs which nature imprints upon earth and sky, and leaf and shrub, the cleverest member of the Weather Bureau, with cables and wireless at his command, is the inferior of the bugs and the birds, the cattle and the sheep, the gophers and the tree toads. When atmospheric conditions indicate the approach of a storm the burrowing creatures abandon their holes in the bank at the side of the stream and bore new ones higher up the bank, beyond the reach of a flood. If there is to be a day of sunshine the lark announces it in the trills of his matin song, and he spreads his tail feathers with the assurance that no rain will cause them to droop. Who that has lived in the country has not noticed how, when the clouds begin to gather, the cattle in the pasture lift their tails and bellow and call for the boy to come and let down the bars that obstruct their road to the sheds? It is not merely a tradition, it is the profound conviction of the colored race that the woodchuck comes out of his hole in the spring time, squints at the sky, and then either frisks into the sunshine, exclaiming in his exquisite mezzo-soprano tones: "There will be no more violent storms this season;" or else he gloomily plods back into his subterranean abode, growling in a basso-profundo voice: "Are we never to have any fair weather?"

Bring eastern bees to California and they will work industriously for one season laying up a six-months' supply of honey. When they find out that winter in this favored clime never shakes a snowflake upon the roses, and that the joy of skating on ice is unknown to the boys, then the observant demitons of the apiary only lay up enough honey for rainy weather. Beyond that they are I won't Workers.

Plants are in their way sensible of conditions. Often the blossoms of man-developed trees, such as the apricots, are nipped by a late frost. Did anybody ever know of a native oak being similarly affected?

With the aid of the telegraph and the wireless man can flash to the captain of a ship at sea notice that a cyclone sixty miles wide, that was born thousands of miles away, is riding toward him on the wings of a tempest at a rate that will reach his vessel in five or six hours. The captain thereupon changes the course of his vessel and steams out of the path of the tornado.

Science has accomplished much for the comfort, safety and advancement of mankind. The microscope in his laboratory has discovered and analyzed and assorted germs, and taught man how to avoid malarial and banish mosquitoes, and lower the death rate of cities, and slay the cottony cushion scale with ladybugs, and to bring in the mongooses from the Orient to exterminate snakes and rodents. But science has yet much to learn and much to teach. The old-fashioned farmer will consult the state of the moon when he plants. If it is a root vegetable he will plant in the dark of the moon. If it is grain he will plant in the light of the moon. Scientists may sneer at him as a victim of superstition, but he will keep on planting in that way. And he gets fairly good crops.

CO-OPERATIVE PRODUCTION.

Co-operative distribution of the proceeds of sale of articles made by labor is an idyllic dream of socialism which offers no practical method, or, indeed, no method at all of bringing it about.

Co-operative production, however, is quite feasible. It is so feasible that it is a marvel that it has not been introduced, at least into the building trades, where no considerable amount of capital is required to do business.

Suppose half a dozen masons and as many carpenters, plasterers, painters and plumbers should associate themselves as a building corporation. Two or three months' savings would enable each member to furnish one hundred dollars, making a capital of three thousand dollars. The corporation would take a contract for the building of a house. Only skillful, industrious and sober men would be admitted to membership. Only workers would be eligible to membership, and only members would be entitled to work on any building to be erected by the corporation. The corporation would pay to its workers the maximum wages prescribed by the unions, and the profits of building would go to the stockholders. No member could own more than one share. No one would be permitted to decline work after due notice that his services were required. Instead of wages a system of compensation based upon the amount of work done might be adopted, giving some greater compensation than was accorded to others. A member not to be allowed to sell his share of stock except to a worker, who should previously be accepted by the board of directors. In paying dividends the distribution might be based upon the earnings of the stockholders.

Just such an industrial corporation has been for years in existence in Honolulu. It is composed there entirely of Japanese. American mechanics there, after annexation, refused to work on any building on which non-union men were employed, and refused to admit Japanese to membership in the unions. Asiatics were not permitted to employ their countrymen even to build their Joss houses. As a result the Oriental building association was organized. In a short time the company was able to own its own stone quarry, brickyard, and to import its lumber from Puget Sound in its own vessel. The work of the Japanese mechanics was as thorough and satisfactory as that of white men, and their prices less, and as a result the construction of many stores and houses for white men fell into their hands.

The labor unions here would have no cause of complaint against work being done by the members of such a corporation as is here suggested unless earnings should be adjusted upon the basis of paying for work by the piece instead of the day, and dividends of profits were based upon earnings, so as to give the skillful and industrious workman an advantage over one who was idle and incompetent. That would be to attack that principle of remuneration by limiting the amount of work to be done by the fast worker to the capacity of the slowest worker.

The principle of co-operative production might, under the plan suggested, be extended to all trades not requiring the use of expensive machinery. It would be found that, with a few months' savings, co-operative quarries, brickyards, iron works, coppering manufacturers and many other industrial plants could be placed in operation, and what the Socialists call wage slavery would come to an end.

The ballet girls of Paris are on a strike. When the ballet girls begin to kick there is something doing.

UNCLE WALT.

The Poet-Philosopher.

When you lock the big front door of your one-horse "codfish store, then forget about your business till another day begins; for this thing of talking shop with a loud and boastful yawn, drives a weary world distracted, puts the lid on human grins. Old Man Bungle comes at night to the dungeon where I write, and he talks about his business and his hasty deals he swung, till I wish the law allowed me to wrap him in his shroud with a clamp upon his larynx and a thumb-screw on his tongue. Everywhere I go some bore backs me up against the door and begins to talk of profits and of margins and the like, till I rise in my despair, brain him with a rocking chair, and later his mangled body in the middle of the pile. Talk of operatic tunes, talk of peanuts, talk of prunes, talk of Lillian's coming wedding, and you will not be a bore; talk of billiousness or books, talk of anything, gadzooks! but your little dinky business in your little dinky store!

A BUSINESS MAN FOR PRESIDENT.

[Leads:] Three-fourths of our two-hundred-sixty-five million people are lawyers, two of them—Taylor and Grant—have been soldiers, two of them—Monroe and Johnson—gave their vocation as statesmanship, while one of them—Roosevelt—announced himself as a public official.

Outside of these particular fields of activity there were only two Presidents. Washington, who learned the trade of a surveyor, which he followed in his early days, was a planter at the time of his election and had been for a quarter of a century previously, except during the eight years in which he was at the head of the army during the War of Independence. William Henry Harrison, at the time of his election, said his occupation was a farmer, and he acted as such in a small way for a few years before he went to the White House, but by far the greater part of his life after he reached manhood years was passed in the army and in political office. Thus our only President who could be called a business man, as distinguished from a lawyer or a professional soldier or professional politician, was Washington. And the intelligence with which he managed a vast estate showed that he would meet the demands which are set up by those who think that it would be well, once in a while, for the country to have a business man in the White House.

But in the immediate future, to a larger extent than ever before, our Congresses and Presidents will be compelled to deal with business problems, and a business man would be more likely than a lawyer or a politician to deal with them wisely. We have many successful business men on a large scale who have the needed political equipment to enable them to meet the demands of the Presidency in a creditable way. It might be well for us to try one of these in 1916—or in 1912 if President Taft should refuse to run again. The great issues of the immediate future are the tariff, the currency, banking and the intelligent regulation of the great trade and transportation agencies. The word regulation, as here used, does not mean annihilation—although, as it is applied by many of our present statesmen, it would bring annihilation.

Way of Reformers.

[Baltimore Star:] The way of reformers is hard. There was La Follette, the scourge of the "vested interests," the firebrand prophet pronouncing the doom of destruction on rich malefactors, the idol of a worshipful host, who had placed him with the cherubim over an altar dedicated to an ideal American commonwealth and to a reconstitution of human nature—the only one La Follette is no more. Friday night the act of harkback took place. At 11 o'clock he began to speak and by the time young chanticleer lustily hails the peep of day found the beautifully-worked La Follette boom in utter collapse. Two hours and a half of that speech had completed the wreck. What would have happened had he reeled off two hours and a half more of it can be left to the imagination. Now we can at least pick up the pieces; then we should have had just plain nothingness, an absolute, aching void. Thus has a mighty cedar of Lebanon fallen. There is only the abomination of desolation in the La Follette camp; and neither President Taft nor any other Republican stalwart is making ready to put on sackcloth and ashes. The boom of the Wisconsinite is utterly demolished.

There is no use of adorning the La Follette tale or of pointing a moral. Reformers will keep on reforming.

BURDETTE AT THE BAT.

CKLII.

Mightier Than the Sword.

Call back the troops from the Mexican border. Hurray the typewriters to the old line of defense of 1861! Washington is threatened. Already ink has been shed on both sides. The breezes from the East bring to our ears the clash of resounding adjectives. Rush the dictionaries to the fortifications that command both ends of Pennsylvania avenue. Bring up the soon-to-be-rifled thesaurus. Out of the way, Marx, before Minerva kicks you over the breastworks (your own breastworks!) Take your old sword to the junk shop and trade it for lead pencils if you want to enlist in this war. Physicians who are specialists in writer's cramp are wanted in the medical corps. A company calls for "Abner Dean of Angels" and "quiet Mr. Brown" may win a colonelcy by his timely sarcasm. Fame and glory wait for the ready writers. No war correspondents need apply. The correspondents are the correspondents. Every colonel has his own Richard Harding Davis. The editors have edited every war that has been fought in the past fifty years; now let them stand back and watch the adjutant and the general wage a war with journalistic weapons. Marshal the glittering columns of type, general. Enlist him with an interview, adjutant. Lay for him with an ambush of questions, general. Look out for the secretary of war, adjutant. This is his own style of fighting. No quarter for anybody. War to the pen and the pen to the handle. Give the enemy the cold blue pencil, warriors. Cut out their bloody paragraphs. Misspell their blooming names, and print 'em in lower case.

Supply Equal to the Demand.

Abdulla Pasha, a Moro Prince, is in this country en route to Washington on such business of state as usually occupies the time of island princes when on diplomatic visits to their great and good neighbors. He is charged by his father, the Sultan, to secure a lot of wives while he is in this land. Well, that is an order that is easily filled. All the young man has to do is to stop over at Reno on his way East and make his own selection. There are heaps of wives in that unfavored city who have no husbands, and they are nobody's widows, either. He could find others in other localities, but Reno is the great distributing center for this commodity. If the Prince wanted young girls with a view to matrimony and ultimate wifehood that would be different. But it seems that what he wants is wives, ready-made and of some experience. Reno is the great manufacturing metropolis for that industry. His Moroccan Highness can study the pedigree of the goods; ascertain the causes which led to the unscratching of the matrimonial leg in each instance, and decide which line is best suited to the climate and customs of the Calabozo district. There is always less or more, and usually more, mystery in the raw material of maidenhood when it is brought to the matrimonial mill to be fashioned into wedding garments. But the Reno goods have been tested by various sorts of weather. They show a little wear and tear, possibly, and are a trifle weather-stained—but never shelf-worn, and being thoroughly Reno-rated are almost as good as new—some of the pieces a great deal better. They may reveal a little, but they are warranted tough, especially the New York and Pittsburgh brands. If a wived son maketh a glad Moro father the old Sultan may be delighted when the Prince returns.

If I Were a Woman, Now?

A correspondent wants to know "what I would do if I were a woman?" Well, I'd spend a few years getting over my surprise, the first thing. You see, I've been a male biped, baby, boy and man now, for nearly seventy years. And to be suddenly transformed into a woman would hit me in all my faculties at once. You might as well ask me what I would do if I were an angel. The transformation wouldn't be much more abrupt. But suppose I were changed into a woman. There would be one trouble, right away. Because, at my time of life, I'd be an old woman. And I'd be pretty nearly through doing anything. I couldn't start in doing the things that girls and young women do. I don't know what I would do, then, because my knowledge of what old, or, that is, elderly women do was acquired in my younger days, when old women were more different from the younger set. I couldn't knit stockings as my grandmother did. There is nothing to knit now. I couldn't take care of my grandchildren; the mothers wouldn't trust them with me nowadays, and moreover the old women of today don't burden themselves with their children's children. The kindergarten and the trained nurse and the primary teacher look after them. I couldn't sit at a sunny window with my Bible in my lap, with my spectacles laid on the page to mark the place. Because it isn't good form to read the Bible where any one can see you, or indeed to have the book on view in any of the living-rooms of the house, except in the Godless hotels. And spectacles? Grandma doesn't wear 'em today. She handles a cigarette. And I'd have forty fits if my—er—limbs were confined in a hobble skirt, and grandma today dresses a little younger than her elder granddaughters, in color and style. I guess the question is a little too deep for me. It comes to me too late in life.

Speechifying by 'Phone.

At the forty-sixth annual banquet of Yale University, in Chicago, President Hadley will make a speech at his home in New Haven, which will be heard at the banquet, a thousand miles away, by 'phone. Ain't it awful, Mabel? What has come over the human race—the male part of it, anyhow? When it would be so easy to escape an after-dinner speech, by the simple expedient of locating the speaker a thousand miles away from the toastmaster's chair, they go to work and make arrangements to have it brought right into the banquet hall by wire. And at this time, too, when the Presidential campaign is just putting out a few preliminary oratory that is bound to overflow this land in a few months. Experienced observers predict that between now and next November there will be a downpour of fifteen inches of Presidential eloquence, reaching to the loftiest heights of inhabitable mesa. And here these Yale alumni in Chicago, which will be a regular maelstrom of hot air in a little while, must bring in a speech a thousand miles away to add to the uppour. Well, it serves 'em right if they hear every word of it. They have no one to blame but themselves. You'd think they'd rather want to run to a place like Oyster Bay, now, where you can't hear anything.

RECESSIONAL.

Like pious monks in bedded gray, To chant the holy mass, The shadows march across the way With muffled lips that seem to pray. The rosy of hours fleet; Each shadow prays for something dead. Some joy that died that day.

Like silent monks all in a row, Stern with fasting, bent in prayer, With measured footsteps and slow, In dreaming ranks the shadows draw. And vanish in the starry sky. Life's sounds of dissonance are dead. And all the quiet world is filled With music as they go. —Helen Hamilton Dudley in Sunset

FRANCE FAILS TO HOLD UP.

Misses Two Hundred Average; Bad Fall Down.

Bostwick Rolls High Score in Individual Contest.

Mineralite Boys Still Leading in Team Events.

BY GREY OLIVER.

A fair-sized crowd of sports greeted the bowlers yesterday in Tournament Hall in the second day's play of the Western Bowling Congress, but at that none but the enthusiastic was present for the delightful weather and the various other sporting attractions kept the spectators away.

The principal part of the programme yesterday was given over to individual contests and two-men team play and the interest of the afternoon was centered in the effort of France of the Long Beach team to finish with a high average for the five-men, two-men and individuals in which he bowled. He will certainly win a substantial prize for he made an average of 189.9-9 for nine games.

His average showing was in the five-man team match Saturday night, when he averaged 232.3-3 for three games, shooting 226, 231 and 247. In the doubles he fell down, averaging but 167.3-3 and he made but 169.1-3 in the singles.

In the men's singles yesterday morning the best score for three games was made by Bostwick of the Long Beach team, who rolled a total of 591 pins. C. Faustick of the same team was second with 568. In the afternoon the high score was 578, made by James of Long Beach team. Guston of Chicago being second with 574 and Brown of Bakersfield, third, with 567.

The rolling yesterday morning in the men's doubles was very close and of the thirteen teams entered, the winners were James and C. Faustick of Long Beach, who made a total of 1064. Hall and Guston of Chicago were second with 1042 and Bostwick and Hendricks of Long Beach were third with 1059. These three teams finished within five points of each other, which is going some for close work.

The feature of the Congress so far was the fine work of the Mineralite team of Chicago late Saturday night, when a score of 2814 was made, which is a new record for the Western Congress contests.

The score was as follows:

Team	1st	2nd	3rd	4th	5th	Total
Thompson	180	180	180	180	180	900

HAS FOUGHT BOTH SAYS ABE'S WINNER.

White, who has met Attell once, and Johnny Kilbane three times, thinks that Abe will be returned the winner over Kilbane, but he says that the last six rounds will tell the tale.

Crowded Houses.

SUNDAY AT THE FIGHT CAMPS. JOHNNY KILBANE'S CONDITION.

BY DE WITT VAN COURT.

SHAW'S GYMNASIUM down at Venice was packed to the doors yesterday afternoon, with interested spectators, who watched Johnny Kilbane go through a half-hour's workout for his fight next Thursday afternoon with Abe Attell.

Kilbane and Jimmie Dunn are so well satisfied with his condition that, as far as they are concerned, the fight is won right now. After a couple of short rounds with Dunn and Tommy Kilbane, Johnny called his day's work off. He said after he was through that he was satisfied with his condition and there was nothing left but to wait for the call of time next Thursday afternoon.

Johnny is so confident that he hardly will walk of the fight at all. Mrs. Kilbane and baby Mary were two interested spectators to Johnny's work. While Mary did not have anything to say about her daddy's chances, she surely looked so from the smiles on her tiny little face. Kilbane is always anxious to get out of the gymnasium after he is through with his work, so he can get a chance at rolling that baby carriage. He spends a good part of his time in the open air at the kind of foot work.

He surely looks to be in the best of condition and is as fast as a streak of lightning with his feet and hands. From the condition Attell is in, this way this can be done, will be to put an indicator on each boy's back to register the blows.

Otto Lelky and Frank Penny of Cleveland arrived yesterday morning to see the fight. Mr. Lelky is a wealthy brewer and a prominent member of the Elks of that city and both his friends of Jimmy Dunn and Kilbane.

They have a big bag of the real coin to bet on Johnny at any odds. He arrived at 2:30 o'clock Kilbane and his training staff will go through their training stunts for the moving pictures. Mr. Osborn, proprietor of the Venice Country Club, has kindly given his permission to have the pictures taken on the tennis courts of the club grounds. This is an ideal place for stunts of this kind.

If Kilbane works as fast in the coming contest as he did yesterday, those moving picture men will have to keep the high gear on the machine all through the fight.

Kilbane seems to be faster than Attell at long range, but at close quarters, Abe has it on him. Still, if Johnny can put more force into his straight punches, he will worry Attell a lot.

If Abe is fast enough to corner Johnny, he should win, but Johnny is one of the slipperiest fellows to corner. I do not look for a knockout in the coming fight, but there are so many surprises in the fighting game, and they usually come so unexpected, by that we must not be surprised at anything that might happen. Attell feels that he must win this fight good and clean. He has been panned pretty hard lately and many think he has gone back. If he don't win, many will think that the stories that have been circulated about him are true. Kilbane is just as confident, so there you are.

SAN GABRIEL BADLY BEATEN.

Country Golfers No Match for City Experts.

Beaten Team Loses by Absence of Regulars.

Macbeth, Frederickson and Edwards Are Winners.

BY ALMA WHITAKER.

The sixth league match, in which the Los Angeles Country Club team played the San Gabriel Country Club team on the Beverly links, took place yesterday afternoon, when Los Angeles was again victorious by all seven points.

Four men failed the captain of the San Gabriel team, necessitating substitutes at a late hour, and it was regarded as distinctly sporting of them to turn up at all with certain defeat staring them in the face.

The San Gabriel men were Humphrey Woodcock, captain; Frank Wade, Conde Jones, C. O. Alkire, Harry Cole, E. S. Wilkes and George Cline.

The Los Angeles team was the same that vanquished Annandale on Saturday with the exception of Walter Cosby, who took the place of J. W. Wilson.

Again the two captains met, Norman Macbeth playing Woodcock, and again superlative politeness, was the order of the day. Neither would take the smallest advantage of the other in any way. Gasdon and Alphonse could do no more.

The first nine holes were in Mr. Macbeth's worst possible style (equal to most people's best) and Woodcock had his man one down at the eighth. Whereupon cheerful voices that should have expounded opposition sympathies called out encouragingly "Go ahead, Woodcock, give him a beating."

But they were all even at the tenth, and the final story was 4 up and 2 to play in favor of Macbeth.

The match between Judge Frederickson and Frank Wade, told much of the same tale, all of Wade's constant play yielding him nothing in default of unfamiliarity with the ground—and the judge is a hard man to beat under equal conditions at the best of times. So the match went to him with 4 up and 3 to play. (Here I would whisper that the judge is a hard man to beat in a beautiful new white knickerbocker suit, and I mistook him for a handsome stranger and failed to make my bow.)

Jack Jerve and Conde Jones (alteration evoked delightfully in the pairings of the various names) played together, the former adding glory to his crowns by a sweeping victory of 7 to 6. Modestly he refrained from shouting the fearful figures from the houseposts, but Conde Jones felt it no disgrace to be beaten by such a hero and told the tale gallantly himself.

C. O. Alkire and Frank Edwards had a somewhat closer "ratch," but "Jack" finally won by 3 up and 2 to play. Mr. Alkire enjoys somewhat the same golfing temperament as Mr. Edwards, both have unbending faith in their own possibilities and back their opinion in coin of the realm. I have heard Alkire offering to bet all his money on giving them 2 strokes—and what's more he won too.

COLE'S FIRST DEFEAT.

George H. Schneider defeated Harry Cole by 3 up and 2 to play, and this, I believe, is the first team match Cole has ever lost—when he played.

On this occasion he started well, winning the first two holes, but his putting was very indifferent, bringing about his subsequent defeat. He achieved the outward half in 49 against Schneider's 44, and the home-ward route in 46, Schneider's 41. His best hole was No. 15, which he did in 1 better than par.

JOHNNY COULON WINS HARD FIGHT FROM FRANKIE BURNS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 18.—Johnny Coulon of Chicago, was still the best man in the world at the end of his twenty-round fight with Frankie Burns of Jersey City, here this afternoon. The fight was fast and clever from the first, Coulon at all times, carrying the fighting to Burns.

He was met with such an onslaught, however, that a number of Burns' supporters thought he should have had a draw.

The crowd, which packed the arena, was loath to leave after Referee Harry Stout had raised Coulon's glove. The yelling was deafening, but the decision stood and the crowd finally filtered through the exits.

Coulon was credited with only one knock-down which came in the first minute of the last round. The champion landed a left hook to the jaw just as Burns' foot slipped. Burns dropped, but was up in an instant and fighting hard.

COULON RUSHED.

Coulon was confident and started the fight with a rush, after feeling his man out in the first round, which was mostly sparring. The champion, according to the sport writers, was credited with nearly every round up to the eleventh, when Burns gradually began forcing Coulon to break ground, getting the better of the in-fighting.

In the second, Coulon rapped Burns repeatedly on the stomach, getting several jabs to the face and jaw in return. Burns landed a stiff jab on the chin at the beginning of the third, following with a short right to the stomach. Coulon braced, forcing Burns to the ropes, working rights and lefts in mid-section. In this round Coulon grabbed the top rope with his right hand and shot in a heavy left to the stomach.

WIND AND STOMACH.

The fourth round found Burns eager, the Jersey boy doing most of the fighting, with Coulon apparently resting.

Burns repeatedly uppeped Coulon in the fifth, getting stiff jabs to the stomach in exchange. In the sixth and seventh, Coulon rushed his man, landing repeatedly on the stomach and wind.

In the eighth, ninth and tenth, Coulon forced Burns back to the ropes with right and left swings, boring into the stomach with short-arm jabs that Burns found hard to get away from. Burns proved the cleverer at infighting in the eleventh forcing Coulon to break ground. They fought toe to toe in the thirteenth, neither apparently having the advantage.

Burns annexed the fourteenth and fifteenth rounds by hard fighting in the clinches, varied by hard jabs to the face. Coulon brought blood from Burns' nose in the sixteenth with a left hook and Burns appeared worried.

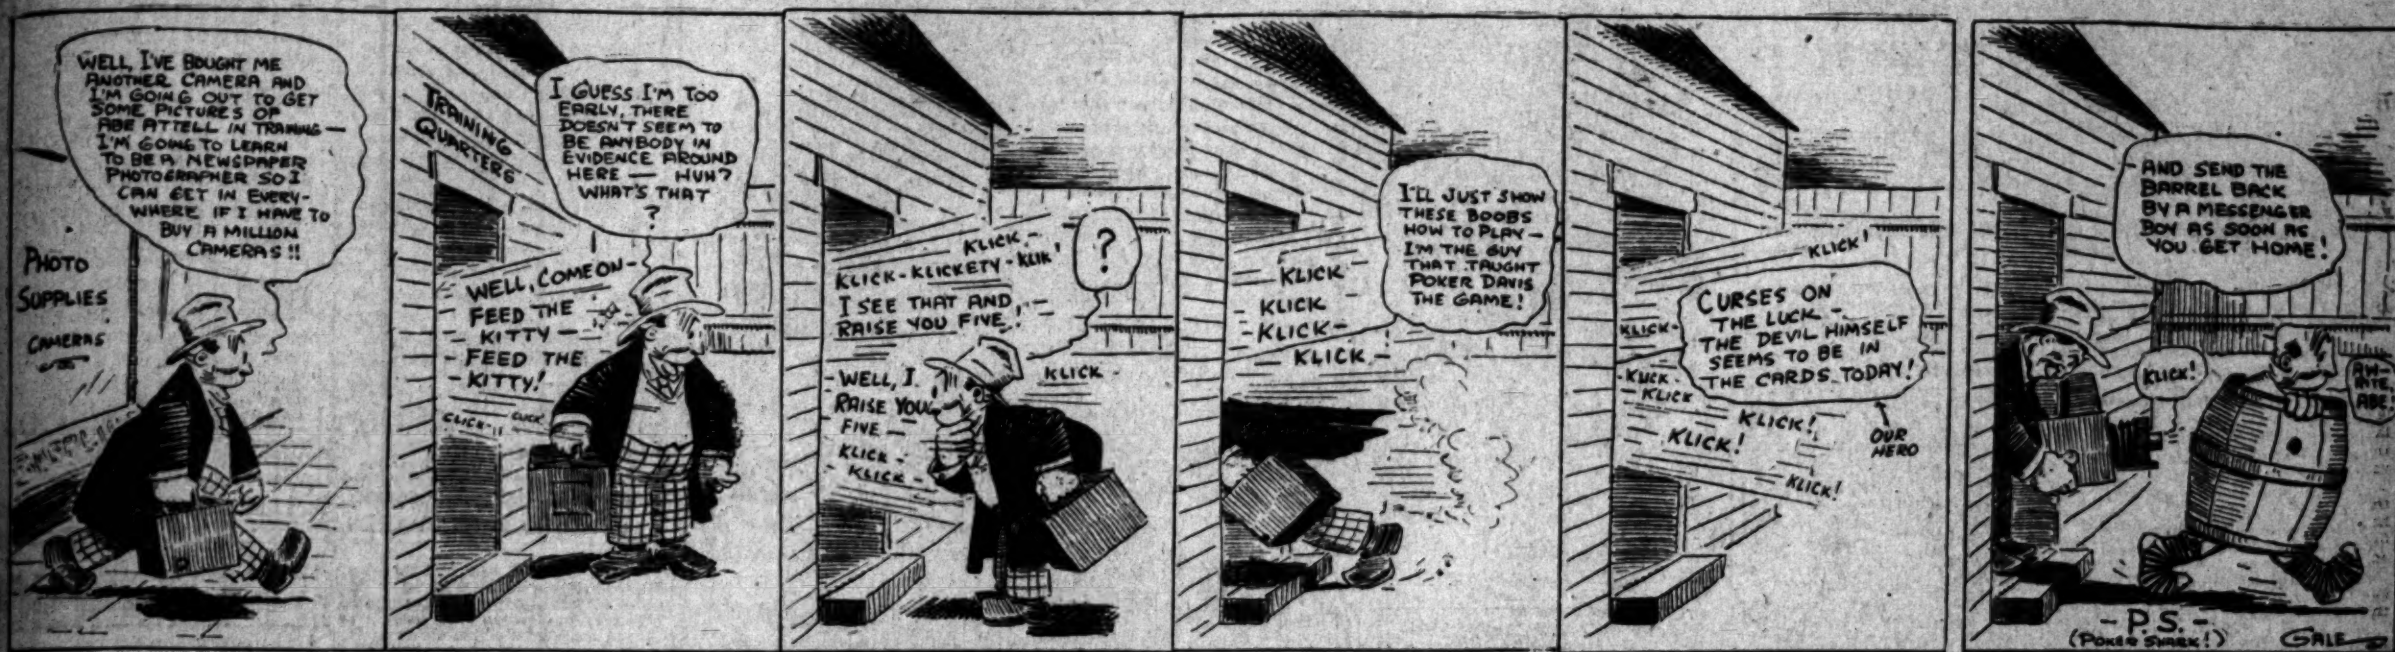

Burns had the better of the seventeenth and eighteenth, varying right and left body blows with right uppercuts in the clinches that made Coulon hold. The eighteenth found Burns poking Coulon's head back with jabs to the face and stomach. Coulon tried hard to land on the stomach, but Burns covered cleverly and the nineteenth and twentieth were about the same. Both were fighting hard at the bell.

Mr. Wad Has Lost Another Camera---But Then There's Nothing Unusual About That!

TIGERS AND U.S.C. AGREE TO CLASH ON SATURDAY.

THE recent renewal of athletic relationship between U.S.C. and Occidental College is already causing comment and speculation among the followers of the rah-rah stuff in this section of the country. Occidental has withdrawn from the conference with the purpose of providing a way for the formation of a new and better organization among the colleges of the State. There has been time for the drawing up of a set of rules to bind the colleges together, and to show their willingness and eagerness to get together with all of the southern institutions Occidental offered to meet U.S.C. on a basis of good faith without any other conditions.

The managers of the two institutions got together and had a meet arranged for in a jiffy, taking the only date in the already heavy schedule of the cards, that of Saturday, February 24. The entire absence of any slightly rules has provided the opportunity for both institutions to be the best of their prep athletes.

The Tigers have been regarded as unusually out of the race this year and their showing of last Saturday was a surprise to many. In a way that legitimized the hearts of their supporters. In the past years U.S.C. as the larger institution, has carried off the lion's share of the contests, but the Tigers have always been game and put up a good fight.

The addition of several good prep athletes puts a different face on the team and forces an entirely new set of hope. U.S.C. would seem to have the edge on the Tigers in the majority of the events according to the latest word and will be strengthened by the addition of Ferd Kelly, the Orange County wonder.

However, the Tigers are not without grounds for hope and seem to think the result is rather more in doubt than comparative scores would show. The Tigers have several men who have not been forced to extend themselves in their past meets and whom they claim will come through in the big meet.

The rivalry of the two schools is of long standing and the great work of the men of both teams this last week guarantees a huge crowd out at Boyard Field next Saturday. An additional line will be drawn on the men of both teams when they line up against each other in the A.A.U. meet, which comes off two days before the dual meet in the same field.

As for the comparative times and distances made in the different events in competition this year, here is the dope:

The 100-yard dash--10.2, Thorpe (U.S.C.); 10 flat, Foster, Baer (O.). The 220-yard dash--22.3, Thorpe (U.S.C.); 22 flat, Foster, Bradbeer (O.). The 440-yard dash--25.4, Hodge (U.S.C.); 44 flat, Cook (O.). The 880-yard run--2:06.1, Smith, Tippen (U.S.C.); 2:05, Annin (O.). Mile run--4:47.3, Torrance (U.S.C.); 4:53, Annin (O.). Two-mile run--10:32, Torrance (U.S.C.); 10:35, Annin (O.). The 130-yard hurdles--17.1, Taylor (U.S.C.); 16 flat, Dill (O.). The 220-yard hurdles--25.4, Hodge (U.S.C.); 25 flat, Dill (O.). High jump--5 ft. 3 in., Chaffee (U.S.C.); 5 ft. 6 in., Beckis (O.). Shot put--39 ft. 1 in., Locke (U.S.C.); 37 ft. 2 in., Smart (O.). Hammer--118 ft. 5 in., Clement (U.S.C.); 106 ft. 9 in., McNary (O.). Discus throw--190 ft. 6 in., Locke (U.S.C.); 182 ft. 7 in., Smart (O.).

ENTRIES COMING FOR LONG BEACH TOURNEY.

Entries for the forthcoming tennis tournament at Long Beach have been coming in rapidly during the last few days and the outlook is very bright for a very large entry list.

The northern players who participated in the Coronado tourney which ended one week ago are in many instances remaining in the South as guests of friends and will enter in the Virginia tourney.

Miss May Sutton and Miss Florence Sutton will enter and in the ladies doubles they will have for their partners Miss Ruth Anderson and Miss Elizabeth Caldwell of Hollywood. These two young ladies were partners with the Sutton sisters at the Coronado event.

Maurice McLaughlin, who recently returned from participating in the matches for the Davis cup in Christchurch, New Zealand, already has two less on the trophy offered for the winner of the men's singles event and has but the present tourney to win in order to obtain the beautiful trophy as his personal property.

McLaughlin has not as yet signified his intention of participating, but it is understood that he will be here and will again meet his old-time rival, Thomas C. Bundy.

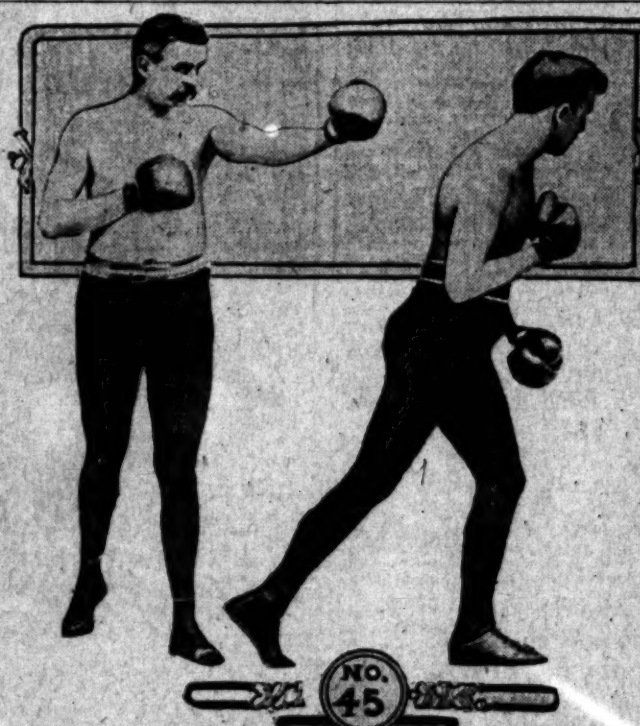

The tournament begins Thursday and closes on Saturday when the finals will be played.

English in Front.

SAN MATEO, Feb. 18. [By A. P. Night Wire.] The English polo team, captained by Lord Tweedmouth, took the first round of play for the Eugene de Sabia cup today, defeating the Freebooters, the second club of the San Mateo Polo Club, 7 to 1.

The speedy ponies of the invaders outdistanced the Freebooters on every sprint to goal and the brilliant work of W. B. Devereaux, who frequently got the ball out of the rack and headed for the goal posts, went for naught, as his team mates could never ride the British forwards off. Each team lost a quarter point on safeties.

Van Court's Boxing Lesson.

This is another view of the side-step, showing better the position of the feet as your opponent works to the right. After you have got away, a very neat trick may sometimes be worked by walking around your opponent in a careless manner, apparently off your guard, but always keeping your left side to him. If he rushes at you, wait until he is within reach and then quickly wheel around, hitting at his head with your right hand.

All Ready, Boys.

FIRST "TIMES" CAMP MEET TO BE HELD SATURDAY.

THE coming week will be a busy one for the grammar school athletes of the Santa Monica Bay district. Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock the first meet of the Times Camp series will be held at the polo grounds of Santa Monica, and the sprinters, jumpers and shot-putters of the schools which will compete, are putting in the last week of practice for the big event.

The Palma school, has a trio of junior stars expected to come out well on top in the scoring, in addition to a large number who will enter the shortened races, with hopes of winning. Joe Giegerlech, Clarence Schuke and Frank Kanter are the well-trained, all-around performers who will do much in the way of taking points.

The Machado lads are as well-trained as any grammar school lot ever were. They have attempted to follow the example of the larger schools and are getting every boy in the school out for the daily workout. It will not surprise even the rooters from the large Santa Monica schools if one of the Machado boys wins the coveted trip to the Times Camp.

MACHADOS IN LINE.

On Wednesday the Machado lads will hold their home meet and will announce their records made in the events for the first time. These youngsters from the little country school have kept their own counsel and would not tell their time in the events of the Times programme, but now that the Machado "kids" are doing, the time and the distance in each event will be set on the boards and will appear in The Times on Thursday morning.

At Venice the boys are in a wild state of delight. They are all good actors in their events and will put up a hard fight for honors against the field. James Young, Bernard McGarry, Orlando Corona, Morris Corbett, Jefferson Davis, Raymond Corona, Herbert Hunt, Alfonso Corona, Tomas Skilly, Lucien Griffith, Johnnie Garey and John Laws will be the leaders of the Venice "bunch," and with a week left to train, the boys should be in great shape and do good work on the track and field.

At Santa Monica, the school boys are all prepared for the opening gun, which will start the Times Camp meet series. The school yards have been the scenes of some good try-out meets during the past week and the records have all been excellent.

Garfield school has a large squad in the running and there will be more names added to the list before Saturday. Carl Willey, Lee Fosal, Glen Anderson, Wilbert Graham, Dick Sturt and Robert McDonough, are the brightest of the stars, but they are followed by a goodly array of talent which should hold up well in the finals.

Lincoln school held a tryout last week and has all the class of the athletic department of the school in training for the Saturday contest, and according to the knowing lads, Doran Briggs will win, not only the district championship, but a trip to the Times Camp.

Sawtelle is a live wire in the school boy athletic world, of late, and from the size of the list sent in to The Times, one might predict a victory over all the other schools of the section.

Harold Addinger is the boy star of the Sawtelle school, and in his squad he will have the following boys: Harold Mechum, Charlie Podder, Dick Martin, Jack Martin, Kenneth Brezelle, Harley Dickens, Vance Horning, Frank Crane, Wayne Dickson, Jack Markham, James Prickett, Edward Prickett and Tom Bowers.

BALL PLAYERS ARE FEATURES OF MEET.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.] OAKLAND, Feb. 18. [Elmer Zacher and Ray Hoffman, Oakland ball players, tried today to catch oranges dropped from an aeroplane, flying at an altitude of 550 feet, the height of the Washington monument. Neither succeeded.]

Lincoln Beachey, the aviator, then brought his craft down to within 300 feet of the ground and tossed baseballs to Zacher. The ball player caught the second.

Ideal weather for flying prevailed today and a large crowd saw a programme of sensational aeroplane "stunts." Lincoln Beachey gave an especially thrilling performance.

A benefit will be given at the meet next Friday for Mrs. Eugene Ely, the widow of the aviator who met death by a fall from his machine at Macdon County, Mrs. Ely, it was announced, will ascend with Miss Blanche Scott.

William H. Hoff, the San Francisco aviator, who was badly injured by the falling of his machine yesterday, showed great improvement today. He probably will recover.

COLUMBIAN LEAGUE DECIDES TO ACT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.] CHICAGO, Feb. 18. [John T. Powers, president of the new Columbian Baseball League, tonight announced that the league will be composed of six clubs instead of eight.]

Club owners held a meeting here today and decided finally to go through the season. Six clubs were represented, Detroit and Cincinnati, President Powers said, probably would not be in the organization, but Kansas City, Chicago, Indianapolis, Louisville, Milwaukee and St. Louis would start the season.

Another meeting will be held here within a week to adopt a schedule. It is expected the season will open about May 1 and close early in September.

FROM THE MASON TO THE MAJESTIC

By JULIAN JOHNSON

The Morisco-Blackwood corporation has already begun to cast its lines for a spectacular production at the opening of the new Belasco Theater. It is probable that this will be no other than "The Garden of Allah," which has been the first and only dramatic production of the Belasco Theater.

After the run of "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" at the Burbank Theater, the revival of "The Squaw Man" will be offered, and immediately following "The Garden of Allah," the first dramatic production anywhere of "Seven Days."

Now comes the query, "Who will play Florence Reed's famous old role, the girl who looked too long on the life as it floated in the Martin?"

One who will be the squeaky-wheel policeman?

For this part I suggest Charles Gaby.

Oh, you, Charlie Murray!

A San Francisco paper was indeed cruel to Charlie's old partner, Ollie Mack. It referred to Charles as "the comedian of the team of Murray and Mack."

Harry James has an almost hopeless task ahead. It's up to him to find a real fire-engine, as a "prop" in "The Never-Norms."

The engine must be practical—a real, old-time, small-sized steamer preferred.

And the Fire Commission, the Chief and all concerned swear there's not an extra engine in sight anywhere.

Of course, they can't be expected to dismantle the Hill-street enginehouse, not even for "Pop" Fischer.

May Boley will appear in George Morisco's part of Patricia O'Flynn—or something like that—in "The Never-Norms." This should present the round and uncouth May to considerable comic advantage.

Lillian May Lancaster, who is probably the chump woman orchestra leader of Southern California, is out again, after an illness of many months.

Her friends—and especially the newshawks, whom she befriended with a concert every year—will be indeed glad to hear this.

Frank Healy, formerly owner and proprietor of a light opera company, is in town promoting the gospel of "Excuse Me," Healy's company at the Hinchley Theater gave several productions which made musical history.

Healy has now joined forces with "Doc" Leahy, the San Francisco impresario, and the two of them make a redoubtable pair.

"Doc" is the original discoverer of Petrusini, and he has never given up plans for another grand opera company, of the stature of that organization which introduced Petrusini to the Pacific Coast in particular and the world in general.

This new company, says Frank Healy, will come to pass in 1912, will be made for San Francisco, Los Angeles and Denver, and will be comparable only to the organization at the Metropolitan Opera-house.

It will contain a chorus of 100, with American girls; an orchestra of eighty, a ballet—a real one—and about thirty principals.

The first conductor will be Giorgio Polacco, Leahy's old director in the days of former glory, and last seen with "The Girl of the Golden West."

"Doc" has a great young dramatic tenor stowed away in Italy, also a lyric marvel, and two or three great sopranos.

Speaking of orchestras, Harry James has a band of eighteen to conglomerate, assemble and assimilate, whatever all these misused words mean, before the 10th of March. And to just pick up French horns, bassoons and oboes in Los Angeles, to say nothing of competent strings and brass instruments, is a matter of no small difficulty.

Wanted, a tenor for "The Songbirds." This "opry," the afterpiece of the first Fischer entertainment, demands a real tenor, who can sing "Ridi Pagliacci," or "Quest o Quella," or something like that, for about five bars in the genuine traditional manner.

Rehearsals are supposed to begin today for the new Fischer company.

Oliver Morisco has just secured "The Commuters," from Henry B. Harris, and it will be presented shortly at the Belasco Theater.

Another new one for the Belasco is, "A Man of Honor," new play in which Edmund Breese recently appeared.

John Blackwood is writing a drama.

Walker Whitesides is declared to be even now presenting a version of the same in Chicago.

Joseph Montrose put in a written request for the cancellation of the Washington's Birthday matinee at the Hamburger Majestic.

"For," wrote he, "I want to go fishing."

Two years ago, on the same historic anniversary, he broke the spot-in croaker record at Playa del Rey, and he thinks the moment propitious for another wrangle with fate.

Joseph begged pitiously, but Manager Morisco merely said "Excuse Me!" and walked away.

The ladies of the Century Club, in New York City, are going to entertain the members of "The Bird of Paradise" company at luncheon, at the Hotel Astor, next Friday afternoon.

Texas Guinan and "Vanity," of the Fischer company, arrived last night. Madison Smith, leading man, arrived Saturday night.

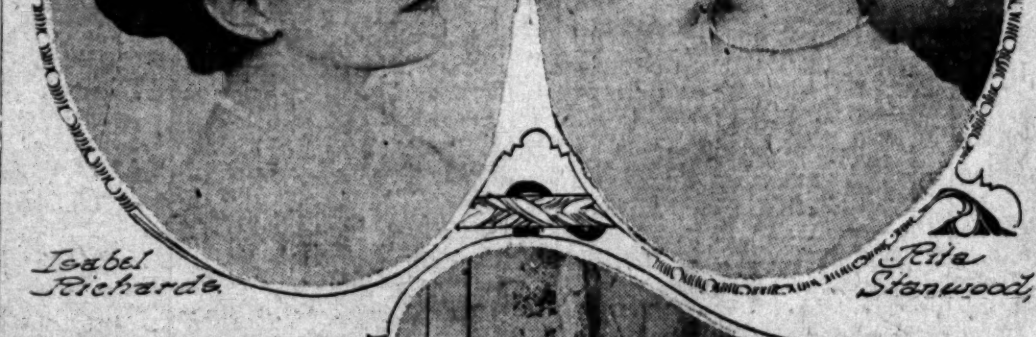

Rupert Hugnet, who confesses to Keokuk, Iowa, as his home town and who has a further claim to fame as having written the farce success "Excuse Me," is showing with some glee, a letter he has received from an angry Englishman.

In "Excuse Me" there is an English tourist, Harold Wedgewood, by name, who wears out the patience of the other characters with his exactions and his "luggage" which takes up most of the space in the sleeping car. The character is, of course, a satire. Now appears, through the mails, a man who signs himself Harold Wedgewood, and informs Mr. Hugnet that if "Excuse Me" were produced in England, he would sue him for libel and other terrible things because he is held up to ridicule in the play. It appears that under the British law concerning libel, if a newspaper states that John Smith committed such and such an offense, all the John Smiths in the kingdom have a right to sue for libel, and can recover such damages as the court sees fit.

Knight Is Traded.—[By A. P. Night Wire.] Shortstop Jack Knight of the New York American League Club has been traded to the Washington Club for Catcher Street, according to an announcement made tonight.

First Conductor Will Be Giorgio Polacco. Leahy's old director in the days of former glory, and last seen with "The Girl of the Golden West."

HOW MISS FOSTER HAPPENED.

George M. Cohen Happened to See Her, and Knew That She Realized "Wallflower" Role.

Marjorie Foster owes her position as Dorothy Wells, daughter of the real estate dealer, in "Get-Rich-Quick Wallflower," the current attraction at the Mason Opera-house, to chance and a certain recklessness when she was a young girl. Miss Foster has been on the stage but a brief period, but she now has three offers of excellent engagements for next season.

When Miss Foster was a little girl in Canada she was somewhat of a tomboy. She used to climb trees and annex apples in a most dexterous manner.

It so happened that a theatrical manager friend of Miss Foster's family was about to produce for vaudeville Ada Rehan's "The Country Girl." Miss Foster was offered the principal role in the play because the character called for a girl of more or less boyish manner. The theatrical manager thought Miss Foster would just suit the role because she could play it naturally.

That night George M. Cohen, and Willie Collier were sitting in a New York vaudeville theater when Miss Foster appeared in the sketch.

"That's the girl I want for Dorothy Wells," said Mr. Cohen.

Fifteen minutes later Miss Foster was offered the engagement and accepted. She has more than justified Mr. Cohen's quick selection, for she has been ideal in the role, giving just the right amount of youthful abandon and at the same time preserving a heart interest which underlies the character.

Miss Foster was one of the distinct bright spots in the local presentation of the Cohen-Chester drama.

ARIZONA MOTOR MART.

Many Cars Are Sold in Phoenix and Other Cities—Cash Is in Sight for Hundreds More.

That Arizona is a good field for the automobile business is proved by the fact that today there are more than 1000 cars in actual circulation in that State. This is a gain of 500 over the number in use this time last year. The larger towns are not alone in the field, for each little community, no matter how small the population, boasts of at least two or three machines. Phoenix, however, leads the State with 700 cars.

One Phoenix businessman sold twenty-eight machines during the month of October alone, and for twenty-five of these he received cash. Although the Arizonaans have not much opportunity for comparing cars, the displays being few and far between, they are very careful buyers and make their selections only after close comparison of such particulars of the different products as they are able to obtain.

ABOUT REAR AXLES.

Few Changes Seen This Year as Cars Are Standardized in Many Details.

Rear-axle construction has not changed to any great extent during the past year outside of the worm drive. The bevel differential is holding its own and bids fair to do so for some time to come. There are now many American firms, however, who are taking up the worm drive and bringing it forward, as European manufacturers have been doing for some time.

The pressed-steel housing is proving popular and there are some additions to the ranks of those who make this type of rear axle. The acceptability of the axle has also been made an objective point and this is very notable in the case where the parts may be reached by removing the cover plate.

NEW SKATING RECORDS MADE BY MATHIESON.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.) CHRISTIANIA (Norway) Feb. 18.

Three new world's skating records have been made by Oscar Mathieson, the Norwegian skater. In the international competitions yesterday, he won the 500 meter event in 44 2-10 seconds, which is 2-5 of a second better than the record made by himself in 1908.

Today Mathieson won the 1500 and 10,000 meters event, the former in 2min. 20 3-5, and the latter in 17min. 16 2-10. The previous record for the 1500 meters was made by Mathieson in 1908—2min. 20 4-5. The 10,000 meters record, 17min. 50 3-5, was made by P. Oestlund in 1909.

COSTLY AUTO CLUBHOUSE.

Plans have been completed for the construction of a clubhouse at a cost of $200,000, to house the Automobile Club of Philadelphia. The first story is to be equipped for garage purposes, with provisions for supplying parts for automobiles, and is to have reading and recreation rooms for members. The second story will have a library, women's parlor, assembly room, map room, dining-room, kitchen and automobile storage room.

Joe Ketchel Dying.

CHICAGO, Feb. 18.—[By A. P. Night Wire.] Joe Ketchel, a Chicago pugilist, is reported to be dying as a result of engaging in a boxing exhibition with "Billy" Waters, at the naval training station in North Chicago, a suburb, today. Ketchel collapsed in the fifth round of the contest. Physicians say Ketchel can not live. He is suffering from hemorrhages of the brain and his right side is paralyzed. No arrests were made tonight, but an investigation will begin tomorrow.

Laurette Taylor

LAURETTE TAYLOR TO BE STELLAR SUMMER VISITOR.

By JULIAN JOHNSON.

LAURETTE TAYLOR, Oliver Morisco's New York star, who is now appearing in "The Bird of Paradise," will be brought to Los Angeles this summer by her manager, for an engagement of eight weeks at the Burbank Theater.

Miss Taylor is probably the foremost of the younger actresses in New York City today. In the parlance, she "sneaked in on rubbers," when she first came into the metropolis, appearing in the spring of 1909, in some unimportant production, in a very unimportant role. She came from the West.

Her talent was soon acclaimed extraordinary. She went from production to production, by the strength of her own personality, nearly saving several, and at length appeared in the principal feminine role in "Alias Jimmy Valentine," however, that she was soon taken out of this man-star play and put into the leading role in "Seven Sisters," an adaptation from the Frenchman, Charles Cherry was her leading man.

Her role at present is Luana, the title part in Tully's play of Hawaii.

Miss Taylor will begin her engagement at the Burbank in the late spring or early summer—possibly in the month of May—opening in "Seven Sisters."

During her engagement she will present four plays by Hartley Mann (author of "The House Next Door," "Zira," and "The Girl in Waiting," another Taylor stellar vehicle). The feature play of this engagement will be "Peg o' My Heart," written especially for Miss Taylor by Mr. Mann.

According to Mr. Morisco, who has read this comedy several times, it is dainty, delicate, and a satire of the highest class, besides which it contains just enough of the dramatic element to give it strength and human interest. "Peg o' My Heart," after its Los Angeles production, will be the Taylor starring vehicle in New York City under Morisco management.

Miss Taylor has been compared to Luana, by several critics, for the intense and poignant characterization she has given the ill-starred Hawaiian princess.

FIVE MEN TEAMS ARE OUT OF LINE.

The results of the five-men team matches last night were not up to expectations, for none of the teams bowled up to form.

Of the best bowlers in San Francisco, finished with an average of 215. The scores:

PORTERVILLE MEN HELP BALL CLUB.

PORTERVILLE, Feb. 18.—At a meeting of the fans held this evening the new officers of the Porterville Valley League baseball team for the season of 1912 were chosen, the following officers being elected:

Y. D. Knapp, president; T. C. Claiborne, vice-president; W. L. Crowe, secretary and M. E. DeWitt, treasurer. The other members of the board of directors were J. A. Ulmer, W. E. Preno and Joseph Richardson. All are well-known business men of this city.

To properly finance the team the directors have secured pledges of money sufficient to take care of a monthly deficit of $1000, which is considerably more than the deficit can possibly be for the league season.

All preliminary expenses have been cared for and the organization starts the season free of debt of all kinds.

CHANCE FOR FERNS.

"Wildcat" Ferns, manager of Clarence "Jimmy" Hurst, of Kansas City, who claims the welterweight boxing championship, last night posted a forfeit of $1000 to bind a match with Packey McFarland of Chicago, or Ray Brown of Indianapolis, for the welterweight championship, the money to go as a side bet.

Officials of the Grand-avenue Athletic Club announced yesterday that Ferns had been rematched for a ten-round bout February 24, with Dave Deshaer of Boston, who was knocked out by Ferns.

NEW REVOLUTION NAMES GOMEZ AS ITS LEADER

Local Junta, Hidden Away in Little Cottage on Boston Street. Claims Its Cause Now Complete, Even to a Provisional President—Two Thousand Men Are Reported to Be Ready for Battle at Chihuahua.

"GOMEZ is the provisional President of Mexico," this message was received at the headquarters of the Mexican junta at No. 914 Boston street yesterday, and the men who are planning a revolt meant to sweep Francisco Madero out of power and turn Mexico into an empire that can be moulded to their own purposes, sent out hurried messages for money and arms.

With the receipt of the message that Madero's domination is disputed and that Gomez intends to lead the revolutionary forces and anti-Maderistas in Mexico, word also came to the junta that three men who had fought with the Madero-Rivera socialistic forces in Lower California are now in prison in Mexico City under sentence of death.

Agua, the "fighting man" of the junta in Los Angeles, was informed of the fate of the men whom he had shouldered arms with in the reckless dash into Lower California.

"The two Frenchies, the men who fought with our forces in Lower California, and one other man, now in Mexico prisons and are condemned to die," Agua was told.

The gigantic Mexican revolutionist was in the hot-headed waters on the Boston-street hill when he was told of the fate of his comrades at arms.

"That's bad," he exclaimed. "They were good fellows, tough men, those Frenchies. I remember them well."

According to the men who have received the news that the French "soldiers of fortune" had been captured and condemned to death, the Mexican government is preparing to inflict capital punishment on revolutionists.

RUMORS RIFE.

The Plaza on North Main street yesterday afternoon was thronged with Mexicans who gathered in little groups and talked guardedly of the internal troubles of their native land. Many of them were preparing to leave for Chihuahua and other provinces where trouble is threatening.

"Madero has betrayed us and has not carried out the promises that he made when he was made President of Mexico," said one of the group, addressing as little group of companions.

He will either have to make his promises good or he will have to face an army of his fellow-countrymen," growled one of the group.

Near by a band of Mexican revolutionists was holding a meeting and chanting hymns to the trawling of a guitar, mandolin and a tambourine. The groups which gathered around this little gathering seemed to hide the groups of revolutionists.

"The Drama."

Little Alice, as the shy and demure Mrs. Temple, is an exact opposite to all these types.

Charles Meekins as Mallory, Aldine Greenstreet as Jimmie Walling, F. J. McCarthy as Ira Lathrop, Charles Abbe as Walter Temple, and Wilfrid Seagram as Harold Wedgwood give fine portrayals.

"Girl and Boy."

One adorably catchy tune, Muggins Davies.

The individual pranks of Walter De Leon.

Ferris Hartman as a Scotch detective.

Muggins Davies.

Roscoe Arbuckle as a beef-trust bell boy.

Muggins Davies.

Several songs and airs which are just pretty.

Muggins Davies.

Some pretty scenery, some pretty chore, some favorite principals, some good comedy lines, and—

Muggins Davies.

It may seem that there has been a repetition of the name of one Davies, a feminine person, from title, Muggins. If it appears that way to you, you are right; there has been, and deservedly.

For Muggins Davies, who comes pretty near being an incomparable, is the life and vitality of her husband Walter's new play, "The Girl and the Boy," at the Grand Opera-house.

Frankly, I don't like "The Girl and the Boy," as well as I did "The Campus." It didn't seem, yesterday, to have the "Campus" snap and go to it, and yet I can easily see that in some ways it is a better piece of writing. If there isn't as much inspiration, there is at least more compactness, more of the professional touch, music which is a little smoother and in one or two instances conceived and executed with a positive genius for catchy effect.

But I listen to say that a first performance is by no means a thing on which to pass final judgment. If I were to, "The Girl and the Boy" to-night, or tomorrow night, or Friday night, I might like it much better than I did "The Campus."

There was a large audience assembled, and, after, staid play, and people received certain calls innumerable.

Usually the boob-town is Watts.

Author DeLeon, however, goes farther south than that, and doesn't stop until he hits Oceanside, as Hammond Smith, newly married and the son of a wealthy San Franciscan, he blows in under suspicion as a blunderer, the holder of a $25,000 option, and with $1.05 in total assets, most of which goes out to a fat bell boy in sympathetic tips.

The substance of the play is made up of the troubles of Hammond Smith and his wife, Michaela Sanderson Smith, in beating the detectives, contriving fake escapes and rescues, and, finally, in getting back to financial terra firma.

"Mike" and "Ham" are the two names Mr. DeLeon has designed for himself and his cunning little spouse, and they are used in a very catchy manner in both acts.

When Muggins Davies is on the stage every one else disappears. It is not the fault of the hard-working others, but is accounted for by Muggins Davies' magnetic personality. She has a gift of unconsciousness, spontaneous humor; she is as pretty as a little doll, her doll, wee, squeaky voice is an audible smile in itself; she is resourceful, she can dance to beat the band, and she is the very embodiment of naturalness and repose.

To Oust Madero.

tionists which were gathered in the confines of the Plaza.

At the headquarters of the junta there was little stirring, as the reports that there was activity here in Los Angeles among the Mexicans who were furthering the cause of revolution in Mexico, caused a feeling of uneasiness to penetrate the little brown cottage where the dreamers of revolt hold forth.

It was said yesterday that the Mexican junta here has done more to further the cause of the revolutionists in Mexico than any other agency.

It is estimated that $50,000 has been sent into Mexico from Southern California in the last month, and that at least 3000 Mexicans, many of them used to warfare and its kindred privations, have been shipped over the border ready to bear arms when the word is given.

TWO THOUSAND MEN.

According to the junta reports here, 2000 men are already armed in Chihuahua, and when more arms and money is gathered, the peons and others in the turbulent parts of Mexico will be put under arms and enlisted under the banner of Zapata.

According to the junta reports here, 2000 men are already armed in Chihuahua, and when more arms and money is gathered, the peons and others in the turbulent parts of Mexico will be put under arms and enlisted under the banner of Zapata.

At the headquarters of the junta there was little stirring, as the reports that there was activity here in Los Angeles among the Mexicans who were furthering the cause of revolution in Mexico, caused a feeling of uneasiness to penetrate the little brown cottage where the dreamers of revolt hold forth.

It was said yesterday that the Mexican junta here has done more to further the cause of the revolutionists in Mexico than any other agency.

It is estimated that $50,000 has been sent into Mexico from Southern California in the last month, and that at least 3000 Mexicans, many of them used to warfare and its kindred privations, have been shipped over the border ready to bear arms when the word is given.

TWO THOUSAND MEN.

the last, when the erring Mr. Wiggs comes back again, to find an unexpected, though undesired welcome. Florence Oberle and Edna Sharpe are Mrs. Schultze and Mrs. Elchorn, the thick and the thin, and never have treated more fun than as these two eccentric roles, and it is hard to believe that Asia, in red dress and pig-tails, is really Lola May.

In fact, the whole Wiggs geographical family is a delight, with those two remarkably pretty girls, Selma Paley and Hazel Buckham, playing European and Australia in flowing hair and barbaric stripes and abbeys.

Miss Brissac plays Lovey Mary, and it is the best part she has presented. She and Tommy present some heart-touching scenes. Tommy, by the way, is tiny Jack Corrigan, a dear little mite of a chap, who is having the time of his life being a real actor.

The only two members of the company whom one can identify without difficulty are Miss Travers and Walter Greene, who still wear city clothes and have a little romance all their own, aided and abetted by Mrs. Wiggs. Which is as it should be, for it would be a shame to compel so fair a member of the cast as Miss Travers to tie her hair up in accord with reigning styles in the cabbage patch.

But why enumerate. The Burbank company has entered so heartily into the spirit of this great character show, that it has created a new play. The players are having as much fun out of their fantastic parts as is the audience, a condition which, more than any, insures spontaneous and a splendid performance.

Ada Reeve, than whom no more refined or popular star has played the Orpheum in its history, returns for her second week at that theater, opening today.

The Lyceum, playing "A Dark Secret" this week—which is theatrical slang for saying that it is closed. But it will re-open next Sunday with "The Newlyweds," from the McManus cartoons.

"The Fourth Estate," Joseph Medill Patterson and Harriet Ford's new paper play, at the Belasco, will tonight enter upon the second week at the Main-street playhouse.

With three fine feature acts, Sullivan and Conditine will offer another new eight-act bill of vaudeville at the Emerson theater, commencing tomorrow. Six acts have usually been the rule on all popular-priced vaudeville bills. It is getting to be a general thing to find either seven or eight on all programmes.

Eight numbers are listed for the Pantages show, commencing with today's matinee. Headline honors are partitioned between Bob Albright, the male impersonator, and a new attraction, an aggregation numbering seven acrobats who recently made their vaudeville debut with the Pantages circuit.

Joe Weber's musical play "Alma Where Do You Live?" will open at the Mason tonight for a week's engagement. "Alma" gave J. J. Argueles with a record of a season's run in New York, at the Weber theater.

Charles A. Murray is the principal comedian.

EVENTS IN LOCAL SOCIETY.

Frank Griffith, the popular president of the Los Angeles Country Club, and his wife have just returned from a visit to the Arrowhead Springs, where they are spending the winter, convalescence after his long illness. He is quite restored to health now and will shortly return to his beloved golf.

The Los Angeles Country Club was the scene of continuous entertainment during the week-end, owing to the large number of visiting golfers. Mrs. F. A. Foster gave a large luncheon and bridge party on Saturday, which many charmingly-gowned women attended, and Mrs. Frank Griffith, the popular president of the club, presided.

Mr. and Mrs. John D. Foster also entertained a small party, and G. G. Walther and Muggins, "Oh, gee, we're married!"

Though the chorus is on quite frequently, the chorus numbers, save one, are conspicuously devoid of novelty. But one reservation is made: "Moonlight" choral at the opening of the second act, a very pretty idea, well worked out—if a little more light is used than was thrown at the premiere.

The scenery and electrical effects are both of good sort.

"Mrs. Wiggs."

"Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," one of the quaintest plays of American life, that was ever written, is the offering at the Burbank Theater this week, and to the regular patrons of the Main street playhouse, will be one of the keenest delights of the season. To see the familiar and well-loved members of the company for at least once in their lives converted into unrecognizable characters must count as a treat to the "regulars" who had resorted to their programmes more than once in order to pick out who was who, at the opening matinee yesterday afternoon.

Who, for example, could possibly recognize in the blubious, stomach-pampering, bewhiskered Hiram Robbins, the personality of dear Stanley, who that worthy, snoring in the coal house, is slaughtered by Mrs. Wiggs into the freight car, leaving his bride of a week, Miss Hazy, in tears and widow's weeds.

Or who would ever have imagined what a charming one-legged lad Henry Rockbridge makes, as Christ Hazy. "Goodness," exclaimed one dear lady, "I'll never give another penny to a cripple. It's too easy for them to deceive us." And then there is Charles Gibby, a little, unsmooth, and gawky, but strong for Lovey Mary just the same.

Best of all though, is Fanny Yantis as Miss Hazy. It is about her and her experience with Mr. Stubbs, the marriage bureau, that the play revolves, and from start to finish, in bridal attire, with lace curtains for a veil, and in the black of mourning for the "railroaded" husband, in evening dress during spooning time, and in tears when her big-headed spouse, who is a deceiver in pretending she could cook, when in reality it is the dainty dishes of Mrs. Wiggs that have won his heart. Miss Yantis makes Miss Hazy a character that is one glad laugh, unbroken from curtain to curtain, except for lack of breath.

Most players know the story of Mrs. Wiggs, and it is about this role that those of address lingers. One's heart goes out to this cheerful, practical woman, whose little, practical, and they are used in a very catchy manner in both acts.

When Muggins Davies is on the stage every one else disappears. It is not the fault of the hard-working others, but is accounted for by Muggins Davies' magnetic personality. She has a gift of unconsciousness, spontaneous humor; she is as pretty as a little doll, her doll, wee, squeaky voice is an audible smile in itself; she is resourceful, she can dance to beat the band, and she is the very embodiment of naturalness and repose.

UNCLE SAM ASKS WHOLE WORLD TO BE PRESENT.

Heads of the Panama-Pacific Exposition.

Charles C. Moore, president (left), and Frederick J. V. Skiff, director-in-chief of foreign and domestic participation for the great world's fair. The officials passed through this city Saturday on their way from Washington, where they enlisted the hearty support of the United States government and President Taft for San Francisco's mighty effort in 1915.

That the Panama-Pacific International Exposition will be the greatest world's fair ever held and that the co-operative spirit of Los Angeles will be a great factor in its success, is the belief of its president, Charles C. Moore.

Moore, accompanied by Frederick J. Skiff, director-in-chief of domestic and foreign participation, and members of their families, passed Saturday night at the Alexandria.

They have just returned from a trip to Washington, where they went to get governmental recognition for the exposition. Not only did they succeed in having President Taft issue a proclamation inviting the world to participate, but they also had the pleasure of seeing the invitations sent on their way by the State Department.

The exposition arranged with Secretary of War Stimson and through Congress for large appropriations to improve the Presidio, according to the plans submitted by Maj.-Gen. Arthur Murray," said President Moore. "We secured permission to use the Ft. Mason and Presidio lands for exposition purposes and arrangements have also been made to hold competitive drills assembling of the militia from various parts of the country, during the progress of our great celebration."

Souvenir gold dollars and silver pieces for souvenirs, will be issued by the Treasury Department, through the courtesy of Secretary of the Treasury McLaughlin. We have also arranged with Postmaster-General Hitchcock for the immediate issue of four denominations of special postage stamps in honor of the Panama Canal, and the exposition.

"We also arranged with Secretary of Commerce and Labor Nagel, for the admission of oriental workers with elevator service has been utilized from a stock room having about 5000 square feet. The new sales room will be made most attractive and commodious."

Mr. Lane who has just returned from an extensive trip East says: "Judging from the interest manifested everywhere in California and particularly in Los Angeles, I can say the present year is bound to be a banner year for us. In spite of the somewhat backward rainy season every indication points that way. Our fair city is only beginning to realize the importance of the fair in the affairs of the Coast. It is because of this anticipated growth of the city that our store is making the present improvements."
